New Officers, Award Winners Named At Maryland Holstein Convention

EVA MARTIN
Maryland Correspondent

NORTHEAST, Md.— The annual convention of the Maryland Holstein Association was held this week at the beautiful Sandy Cove Bible Conference Center on the banks of the North East River with Cecil County serving as host.

William Allen, chairman of the nominating committee, conducted the election of new officers. Oren Bender from Accident will serve as president. Vice president will be Charles Iager from Fulton and Anita Hill of Emmitsburg will serve as secretary/treasurer.

Progressive Breeder Registry Awards for 1991 were presented by Thomas Dum, consultant from the National Holstein Association. Maryland breeders who received this award and the number of years they qualified were: Maple Lawn Farms, Inc., Fulton, 24 yrs., 22,009m; Marlin Hoff, New Windsor, 11 yrs., 22,843m; Carl L. Bender, Accident, 9 yrs., 23,226m; Joseph A. Schwartzbeck, Union Bridge, 8 yrs., 23,321m; Del-Myr Farm, Westminster, 7 yrs., 22,375m; Donald L. Wilcom, Ijamsville, 7 yrs., 22,572m; My Lady's Manor Farm, Inc., Monkton, 6 yrs., 22,373m; University of Maryland, Ellicott, 6 yrs., 25,045m; Jason & Donna Myers, New Windsor, 5 yrs., 23,377m; Dennis E. Savage, Keymar, 2 yrs., 23,783m; Savage-Leigh Farm, Knoxville, 2 yrs., 23,491m; Wayne E. Schrock, Grantsville, 2 yrs., 24,721m; Roy W. Crow, Kennedyville, 1 yr., 23,352m.

Jeff Myers, chairman of the Breed Improvement Committee, presented the production awards

PVATA Needs Your Help

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Pennsylvania Vocational Agriculture Teachers Association (PVATA) has about 160 members, all teachers or teacher-educators of agriculture.

Generally, the purpose of the organization is to provide leadership and support for agricultural education instructors and their students, statewide.

For the first time officially, the group has hired a lobbyist to further their goals for better agricultural education within the entire school curriculum — to create better "agricultural literacy" among all Pennsylvanians.

Previously, the group had a legislative action committee and it realized some measure of success with certain issues — but having fulltime ag teachers serve as lobbyists is a difficult situation, at best.

Those wishing to join the organization, or donate funds to support its legislative efforts, should call G. Lowell Morton at (717) 867-1970, or write to Morton at 1068 E. Main St., Annville, 17003.

DHIA Annual Meeting Set

HERSHEY (Dauphin Co.) — The Pennsylvania Dairy Herd Improvement Association's fourth annual meeting is set for March 6 and 7 at the Hershey Lodge and Convention Center. The convention theme this year is "Let DHIA Help Round Up Your Profits."

On Friday morning, meetings for new local committee members and directors will be held from 8:00 a.m. until 11:45 a.m. The

Nutrient Management Aired At Forum

LITITZ (Lancaster Co.) — Nutrient management laws and regulations are certain to play a bigger role in agriculture in the years ahead, Michael Brubaker told a breakfast meeting of the Agricultural Issues Forum held at Kreider's Restaurant. What concerns the agricultural community is that nobody knows exactly where the regulations will come from, nor what they'll say.

Brubaker, a Lititz agronomist who is the Forum's managing director, was summing up a fast-paced 45-minute meeting in which an attorney, a solid waste manager, a county agricultural agent, a conservationist, an environmentalist and a legislator/farmer, in addition to Brubaker, presented their sometimes conflicting views of House Bill 496 and the larger issues surrounding it.

After an introduction by the meeting chairman, Jay Howes, manager of agricultural services for the Lancaster Chamber of Commerce and Industry, Lancaster attorney Jay Humphries called HB 496 a "gentle" approach to nutrient management.

In today's agricultural parlance, "nutrient management" means controlling how, when and were to spread manure on farmland. HB 496 would require Pennsylvania farmers to have nutrient management plans drawn up to provide guidelines for the disposal of animal manure.

Many Factors Determine High Corn Club Yields

Lloyd Zook, a hog and beef farmer in Oley, left, was honored with first place in the three-year average class for shelled corn by the Pennsylvania Master Corn Growers Association Five-Acre Corn Club. The award will be presented at the 1992 Pennsylvania Corn Conference on Tuesday at the Embers Convention Center in Carlisle. At right is Zook's wife, Ruth Ann. Photo by Andy Andrews.

OLEY (Berks Co.) — Seed salesmen, take heed — you have to consider the many varied conditions of a farmer's land before you can close the sale.

And it is a combination of factors, including soil conditions, fertilization programs, management practices, and weather patterns that go into a successful corn crop.

"I think some farms will grow different types of seeds better than others," said Lloyd Zook, a hog and cattle farmer in Oley. "Sales reps will argue with me on that, but I think that I can do better with Pioneer seeds on this place than I can with any other company."

That's Pioneer hybrid 3241, which netted Zook first place in the three-year average class for shelled corn harvested from a less than three acres sample. Zook obtained a three-year average of 185.3 bushels per acre off of 1989 and 1990 yields (average for 1991 was 201.8 bushels per acre).

Five-Acre contest

Zook will join others who will be honored with awards by the Pennsylvania Master Corn Growers Association Five-Acre Corn Club contest at the 1992 Pennsylvania Corn Conference on Tuesday at the Embers Convention Center in Carlisle.

While Zook said that other seed companies provide good seed, after several years of trying different varieties on his land and under his growing conditions, Pioneer proved the best.

About 3-4 acres is dedicated to corn test plots on the Zook farm, which he maintains "because it tells me where Pioneer is at with their numbers, and it gives me a good idea of what's available to plant next year."

But variety alone won't necessarily make a winner — it was a host of factors, from planting to harvesting, that created a winning combination.

Delmarva Broiler/Fryer Market

Wednesday, February 26, 1992

DELMARVA BROILER/FRYER MARKET. FEDERAL-STATE: Movement of ready-to-cook broiler fryers was light and generally disappointing. Supplies were adequate to ample. Less than trucklot asking prices were unchanged at 47 to 58 cents. Live supplies were moderate. Weights were generally desirable. Processing schedules were heavy in spite of some plants curtail- ing operations. Trade sentiment was steady at best. Northeast Chicken Parts

Wednesday, February 26, 1992

Trucklot buying interest was light and limited to commitments only. Supplies of boneless skinless breast cutlets, rib on and line run breasts, and legs were in good balance with today's needs. Yellow skin leg quarters were in tight supply with some buying interest not filled this morning. The trade sentiment on the breast items and on the dark meat items was steady. The supply of wings were fully adequate to ample, offered, and not cleared; and the trade sentiment was cautiously steady. All items in the parts complex traded at steady prices.

National Egg Market

Wednesday, February 26, 1992

NATIONAL EGG MARKET - AT A GLANCE: Prices were unchanged to higher in the Northeast and Midwest, unchanged elsewhere. The market tone was steady to instances firm, best in the Midwest and South. Demand was mixed across the full range, mostly moderate, and best where featured. Supplies were mostly adequate with closeness reported in the South, and excess eggs held with confidence for higher prices. Breakers generally paid higher prices for shell eggs.

Live hen markets were at least steady in all areas except the West North Central area where live offerings exceeded the light demand.

Oklahoma City Feeder Cattle

Oklahoma City, Okla.
Wednesday, February 26, 1992

OKLAHOMA NATIONAL STOCKYARDS WEEKLY CATTLE SUMMARY: Compared to last week: Feeder steers over 650 lbs. and all heifers $1.00- $3.00 lower. Stocker steers under 650 lbs. firm. Demand fairly good for yearling feeder cattle at the lower levels. Very good demand for grazing cattle. Quality of supply average to attractive. Flesh conditions not extreme for wheat cattle and typical for March; cattle in average through moderately fleshy condition. Buyers exhibited very little price discrimination between these differences in wheat flesh. Weigh ups attractive to buyers as cold rain Sunday night and Monday kept many cattle in gaunt to average weigh condition. Slaughter cows steady for the week. Slaughter bulls $2.00 higher. Cow and bull demand good.

Large receipts prior to March indicates quickly maturing wheat; fast growth has created some bloating or wheat poisoning problems, hastening marketing in many cases. Receipts this week 17,213; last week 12,945; last year 13,928. Supply consisted of 78 percent yearlings; 19 percent calves and stockers under 600 lbs.; and 3 percent cows and bulls. Bulk price ranges follow: Feeder Steers: Medium and Large Frame 1, 240-400 lbs. very thin $111.50- $128.50; 400-450 lbs. $103.00-$112.75; 450-500 lbs. $94.00-$102.75, thin and gaunt $105.50-$108.75; 500-550 lbs. $90.00-$98.50; 550-600 lbs. $88.25-$93.00; 600-650 lbs. $82.00-$88.50, thin $86.50-$90.50; 650-700 lbs. $80.00-$85.00; 700-750 lbs. $78.50-$82.00; 750-800 lbs. $77.00-$81.00; 800-850 lbs. $76.75-$78.75; 850-900 lbs. $75.00-$77.50; 900-975 lbs. $73.50-$77.00; 1000-1075 lbs. $71.00-$73.25. Large Frame 2 Holsteins, 415 lbs. $86.25; 530 lbs. $78.75; 600-650 lbs. $72.75-$74.00; 650-700 lbs. $67.25-$72.00; 700-800 lbs. $66.50-$69.25; 800-875 lbs. $66.50-$68.00; 875-950 lbs. $62.25-$66.75.

Feeder Heifers: Medium and Large Frame 1, 225-300 lbs. $98.50-$112.00; 300-400 lbs. $89.00-$99.00; 400-500 lbs. $84.00-$90.00, thin to $93.50; 500-550 lbs. $82.00-$86.00; 550-600 lbs. $79.00-$83.00; 600-650 lbs. $76.25-$81.25; 650-700 lbs. $76.75-$79.25; 700-800 lbs. $75.50-$79.00; 800-900 lbs. $73.75-$77.50.

Slaughter Cows: Cutter, Boning and Breaking Utility Y.G. 1-4 average dressing $47.00-$50.25; high dressing $50.75-$54.00; low dressing $44.00-$48.00.

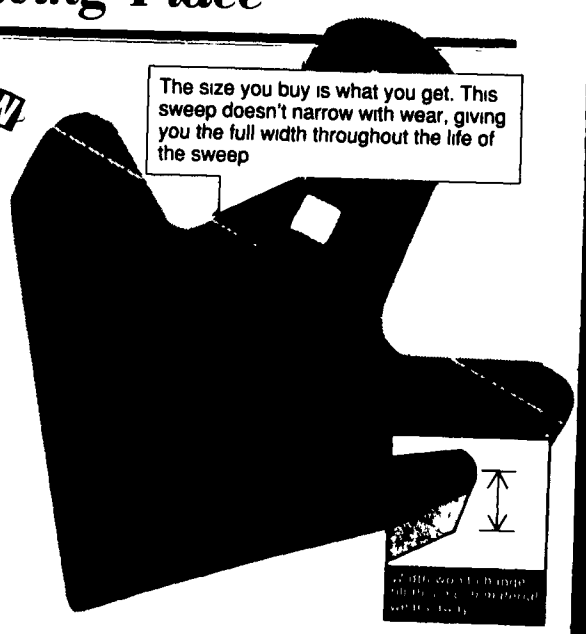
THE BIG SWEEP! NEW
Revolutionary Case IH MAXXI-WIDTH™ sweep penetrates faster ... and wears longer!

- New constant width design helps maintain original cutting width during the life of the sweep — gives you consistent overlap.
- "Double-strength" wraparound stem withstands loads over 2500 lbs.
- Heavy-duty, reinforced wear tip produces better penetration ... and protection.
- "Austempered" heat treatment process provides up to 19.2% more wear.
- Lower angle pitch means less tip wear, less draft and more residue — perfect for today's conservation tilling.
- Two stem widths available: 1 1/2" for Case IH and IH applications, and 1 3/4" for non-Case IH.



The size you buy is what you get. This sweep doesn't narrow with wear, giving you the full width throughout the life of the sweep

FREE HARDWARE ... with each sweep you buy! A $.55 value!

The OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC — THIS WEEK WITH

NATIONAL PROCRASTINATION WEEK

SHROVE TUESDAY, MARCH 3, 1992

Shrove Tuesday, the day before Ash Wednesday, evolved from the practice of shriving — purification through confession — just before Lent Other names also apply Mardi Gras is the culmination of several weeks of revelry At Fasnacht,

Pennsylvania Dutch children get up early to avoid being the last one out of bed Adults and children eat fasnacht kuchen, traditionally a rectangular doughnut with a slit in the middle, raised without yeast Among the Polish, Paczki Day means eating paczki, special jellybuns Pancakes are another traditional food, baked to use up the cooking fats that are forbidden during Lent

In spite of different names, these traditions have in common special food and special events to mark the last chance to feast and make merry before the fasting and solemnity of Lent

Some say thunder on Shrove Tuesday foretelleth wind, store of fruit, and plenty.

TIP OF THE WEEK

Three or four capfuls of bottled lemon juice added to the water in home humidifiers will eliminate musty and stale odors.

EARTHWISE

Showerhead flow restrictors are a good idea for water conservation but many people are reluctant to switch fearing a sprinkling in shower Newer structures on the market restrict the flow 2½ gallons per minute or less and still deliver an invigorating shower Generally the average shower uses a quarter of the water of a bath If you absolutely must soak in the tub now and then, afterward leave the water standing until it reaches room temperature The heat and moisture will thereby go into the room rather than down the drain

CINNAMON PANCAKES

2 cups flour (white, whole wheat or combination)
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
2 eggs
2 cups milk
½ cup brown sugar
½ cup oil melted butter, or other fat

Mix together the dry ingredients In a separate bowl lightly beat eggs then mix in milk brown sugar and fat Make a well in the dry ingredients and add the wet ingredients all at once, mixing until large lumps disappear Cook on a lightly greased griddle over medium-high heat Makes about 20 4"pancakes.

The OLD FARMER'S WEATHER FORECAST

NORTHEAST: Snow, freezing rain and rain, then clearing, cold north, mild south

SOUTHEAST: Rain snow inland and north clearing and warming cold coast seasonable Florida

MIDWEST: Cold and snowy rain south then sunny and mild

NORTHWEST: Cloudy and cold snow mountains then sunny and mild Mild intermittent showers coast

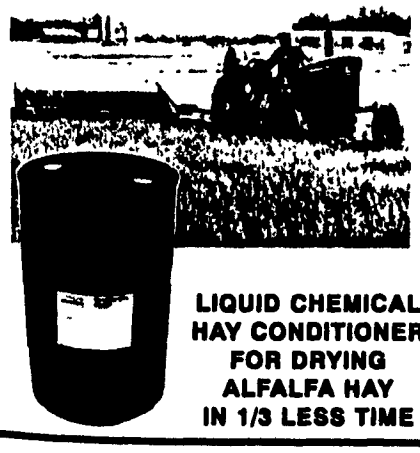
SWATHER'S ~~Natural Alfalfa~~ / ~~Natural Alfalfa~~ CHOICE

ALFALFA HAY CONDITIONER

NEW!



LIQUID CHEMICAL HAY CONDITIONER FOR DRYING ALFALFA HAY IN 1/3 LESS TIME

Alfalfa and other legume crops have a coating of wax. While this coating is a natural protection for the growing plant, it is an inhibitor to moisture loss in field curing and to feed utilization in the digestive system of ruminant animals. The presence of this coating of wax also makes the hay stem brittle and less palatable to livestock.

Swather's Choice "washes off" the outside waxy coating of alfalfa, allowing for the water inside the plant to evaporate more rapidly than in untreated hay. Swather's Choice is actually a soap that is safe for livestock consumption and won't affect palatability.

In studies at Michigan State University, hay treated with the ingredients in Swather's Choice had higher protein and lower fiber. In a further study at Utah State University, cows consumed 2.2 pounds more treated hay per day.

Unlike conventional granular drying agents, Swather's Choice is a liquid chemical hay conditioner. It is easily tank mixed with water and requires only fifteen gallons per acre in most applications, compared with the conventional products that are normally applied at 30 gallons per acre.

OPINION

We Are An Agriculture

Those who become part of history rarely know they will become such.

What they know is that they have an idea of what they should do and the way things should be.

Obviously, these people, who change and create new directions for societies and communities, believe in their ideas and are convinced others should share in the vision.

So they push for others to understand.

When that happens, it causes controversy.

The controversy comes from people not willing to review their perceptions as they compare to current facts.

It seems that a responsible person would make every effort to ensure that he, or she, is not wrong, ill-informed, or holding back the success of a community.

The success of the Pennsylvania community, specifically as it strives to achieve and retain prosperity, depends a great deal on how it teaches its youth.

Here are the problems:

• There are numerous jobs in agriculture (agribusiness, agriscience, etc.) which are not being filled because of a lack of education.

The graduates today lack an understanding of agriculture, therefore they lack an understanding of a society that was founded and remains based on agriculture.

Agriculture is synonymous with the human condition.

Thus, broadly, a case can be made that these people lack the ability to meaningfully apply what knowledge they have.

• Agriculture is the number one industry in the state, with no immediate reason to suspect its downfall to foreign competition.

That, coupled with the sensible reasoning that people should have a solid foundation in the knowledge of their food and fiber sources (after all, it is essential for survival), dictates that primary school curriculums and individual courses of study should be saturated with agriculture.

Current school curriculums and courses reflect the industrialized economy of Pennsylvania — the steel, iron and coal days — which are past.

Here's what can be done.

On March 11 and 12, the State Board of Education is to decide whether or not to include agriculture into regulations covering school curriculums.

To date, the Pennsylvania Vocational Agriculture Teachers Association (PVATA) has been pushing foward in an effort to get agriculture infused in the education system. Others are joining efforts and legislators are listening.

Support this effort in writing, and make others aware of this effort.

Let everyone understand that we are an agriculture.

NOW IS THE TIME

To Understand Component Pricing Of Milk

Dairy farmers who ship milk to federal order markets received their first milk check computed on the basis of the new component pricing system.

Under the new system, you are paid for the pounds of fat and solids nonfat shipped, not hundredweights of milk shipped. This will prompt some dairy farmers to ask, "How can I feed cows for higher milk components and higher milk prices?"

This could be the wrong question to ask. For greatest returns, you should be focusing on cows' component yield, not on the percent of components in the cow's milk.

To accomplish this, select sires that transmit high component yields, not necessarily high tests. Then feed a balanced ration for normal health and good milk production. Respectable component levels and milk production will follow. This should be the combination that maximizes producers' returns.

To Check Livestock Fencing

As spring approaches, so does fence mending and building times. For effective animal control, wire spacing is more important than fence height.

More animals go through and under fences than over them. Proper wire spacing makes your fences more effective. Regardless of how many wires your fence has, always position one wire at the shoulder height of the animal to be controlled. This is the nose wire that your animals see and touch when they approach the fence.

Other fence wires should be spaced according to the type of animal — 10 to 12 inches apart for cattle and horses and 6 to 8 inches apart for sheep and goats. The bottom wires should be closer together than the top wires.

Fences taller than 48 inches are not really necessary. Electric fences may be lower — 36 inches for cattle and horses and 30 inches for sheep and goats. Shorter fences allow for closer wire spacing.

To Improve Farrowing Management

"If a sow weans a small litter, chances are it is your fault, not hers," writes Dr. Ken Kephart, Penn State animal science department.

According to Kephart, 10 percent of a sow's mothering ability may be attributed to genetics, and the other 90 percent of her performance depends on the environment in the farrowing house. A sow needs the best possible conditions available during farrowing to deliver the healthiest possible litter.

Factors to consider are proper nutrition of the sow during breeding, gestation, farrowing, and nursing period; good air quality; correct temperatures; and a good health and sanitation program.

By properly managing the sow, you will be able to increase number of pigs weaned.

Feather Prof's Footnote: "Nature gives everybody five senses. The other two — horse and common — you must acquire."

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

MARVELOUS UNBELIEF

Background Scripture: Mark 6:1-13.

Devotional Scripture: Psalms 119:137-152.

Someone ought to put these words on a plaque and hang them in every pastor's study: "And he could do no mighty work there, except that he laid his hands upon a few sick people and healed them" (Mark 6:5). Why? Because every pastor at some time gets discouraged because his or her efforts seem to bear no fruit. Too often we assume that the problem is with us and sometimes it is — but often, even when we have done our very best, there is little success because there is too little or no receptivity.

It is important that every pastor realize that even Jesus could not accomplish anything when he returned to Nazareth, his home town. Note, Mark doesn't say that Jesus decided not to, but that "he could do no mighty works there." It appears that Matthew was uncomfortable with such a bald statement and softened it: ".. he did not do many mighty works there" (Matt. 13:58). But, as we said last week, Mark is more to the point and tells things more plainly: he said Jesus was not able to do much in Nazareth.

HE COULD NOT

This is something that lay people need to remember as well as clergy. We are called to be faithful in our witness, not to be successful. There will be times when we have done our best to pass on the faith to our children, to witness in our workplace, to be the good news in our community, but without success. Why, because when we have done our part, others must still do theirs: they need to respond, and, if they don't we can do nothing about it.

Mark paints a very strange picture for us in Mark 6. Jesus is unsuccessful in Nazareth, but then he sends out his disciples and they are very successful: "And they cast out many demons, and anointed with oil many that were sick and healed them." (6:13). Does this mean that the apostles were more able healers than Jesus? No, it means that they were greeted by belief, while in his own home town Jesus experienced unbelief.

Mark says: "And he marveled because of their unbelief"! (6:6). His own people were so unreceptive that he marveled. In today's parlance we would say their reception was "mind boggling." Usually, it is faith that impresses us, but Jesus was shocked at their unbelief. He was surprised, not that they didn't believe in him, but that they failed to respond positively to his message. They were "astonished" and asked "Where did this man get all this?" But because he was a local son, they rejected his message. It didn't slip by them; they willfully rejected it. It took real effort not to respond.

OUR OWN COUNTRY

Jesus could have become terribly discouraged or even bitter. Yet, when he repeats the old proverb, "A prophet is not without honor, except in his own country, and among his own kin, and in his own house," he does so without rancor. No, he is incredulous at their unbelief and, instead of wasting his time in recrimination, Mark tells us: "And he went about the villages teaching" (6:6b). That, too, is a verse that all of us ought to memorize and keep in the depths of our hearts. For, when we, like Jesus, are greeted with unbelief, we need to spend our time and effort in moving on so we can continue to do what God wants.

A miracle requires faith, and so does just about any other enterprise. No matter how great the preacher or how dedicated the lay leader, you can't heal the sick, feed the hungry or build a church where a preoccupation with the obvious facts produces a climate of astonishing unbelief.

When you use a lot of dairy feeds, there's one person who's guaranteed to make a profit on your dairy farm—your feed salesman.

Fortunately for you, Agway doesn't just sell feed. As a farmers' cooperative, we work to improve productivity and profits on dairy farms just like yours throughout the Northeast. Our reward is helping you make more milk, more profitably. Of course, we sell dairy feeds. In fact, we pioneered the field of high-performance dairy feeds with breakthrough introductions like NutriTech® and Pro:Right But that's just part of our dairy know-how

We take a complete approach to your dairy operation. One that pays attention to your herd's lactation curves. Plans for a year-long feeding program. Analyzes your forage quality and recommends ways to improve it So you can grow more protein instead of buying it. And our new Payback 24™ program can help get your first-calf heifers into the milking string faster and healthier with a comprehensive line of new feeds and management practices.

Talk to your Agway Farm Enterprise salesperson today. Find out how we can help put more milk into your tank and take a little less out of your pocket

WHO SHOWS YOU HOW TO MILK THE MOST OUT OF YOUR FEED DOLLAR?

AGWAY, THAT'S WHO.

AGWAY®

Shreds stalks yet won't plug up!

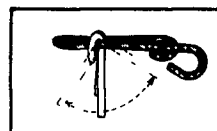
The perfect tool for ridge and minimum till

The Fuerst harrow cleans ridge tops, creating excellent seedbed. Unique "Spreading Action"® tines hug the soil at faster speeds to shred and evenly spread no-till stalks in the spring.

Dozens of uses:
The harrow used behind a disc or cultivator, incorporates herbicides in one pass Used alone, it covers broadcasted seed, renovates, maintains pastures and more

The harrow/cart (an optional harrow carrier as shown) follows tight turns, has folding wings for easy transport. Harrow and cart are available in 16 to 42 ft. widths.

"I believe the harrow works as good as a stalk shredder; it lifts and shatters the stalks and yet doesn't tear up the ground."
Roger Bommer--
Brookville, IN



Free swinging tines
Fuerst's free swinging "Spreading Action"® tines make it the ONLY harrow that can effectively incorporate and shed trash

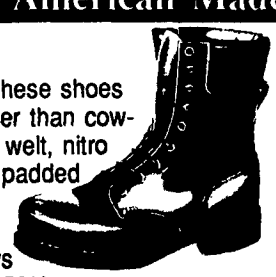
HORSEHIDE
GENUINE HORSEHIDE
Barnyard Acid Resistant American Made



Made of tough, long wearing horsehide, these shoes stand manure, silage, oil and grease better than cowhide. Shoes feature a genuine Goodyear welt, nitro cork sole that will not track, steel shank, padded collar, cushion insole and arch support. Ideal for barn use. Sizes 7-13 including ½ sizes. 1st quality. Our experience shows that horsehide outlasts good cowhide by 50% or more for farm use.

AGRI-KING KEY TO PROFIT®

WANTED in large quantity

Non-Toxic Soybeans, Corn and Speltz

Price is $12 per bu. $3.00 per bu. 10¢ per bu.

Toxic free Speltz demand is growing fast. Makes better food and feed than other grains. Higher nutrition.

A Md. Cannery Wants 3 Year Organic Sweet Corn In Large Quantity

The organic market is developing fast. People are wisening up to the damage of chemicals. Get ready without delay. Our Nutri Carb fertilizer makes non toxic crops in one season if applied early. And it puts so many minerals in the feeds that some farmers don't put extra minerals in the dairy feed. The cows do better that way than by computer recommendations with chemical grown feed. No need for spraying alfalfa, and the fertilizer is good for 5 years. We wean the farmers, put them on easy street. Therefore we need customers to replace them. How about you? We want to make you happy too. Free literature. Very reasonable prices in bulk.

Dairy Day On March 5

HONESDALE (Wayne Co.)— The 1992 Wayne County Dairy Day will be held Thursday, March 5, from 9:30 a.m. to 3:15 p.m. at the Wayne County Veterans Memorial Armory, according to co-chairpersons Ella Chyle and Victor LaTourette.

Dairy Day is held each year to provide dairy farmers with new technology and to recognize the importance of the dairy industry to our local economy. It is sponsored jointly by Penn State Cooperative Extension and area farm businesses and organizations.

This year's presentations will give producers management alternatives to help them cope with today's economic conditions. The program will feature a panel discussion with local dairy producers and a presentation by a director of the Pennsylvania Milk Marketing Board.

In the morning, a panel of three local farmers and a local veterinarian will discuss different philosophies of heifer management.

All northeastern Pennsylvania and neighboring New York dairy farmers are invited to attend this annual event. Lunch is furnished by the participating exhibitors.

SILAGE BALING?

"It's Just Like Eating Candy."

Cut away the plastic wrap and that sweet smell of fresh haylage says it all, because finally you've got the high-moisture, high-protein hay product you've been looking for ... neatly packaged by a quality-built baler specifically designed for high-moisture hay. And, your herd takes to it just like candy. The rich, extra protein boosts milk production. And the bottom line? Contented cows and fatter profits, without all the costly silos and expensive hay handling equipment. Interested in seeing what the new Vermeer 504 Silage I Baler can mean to your operation? Call today!

Now you can seal it tight and feed it fresh, even months later, when you wrap it up with the new Vermeer Silage Wrapper.

Atlantic Dairy Young Farmers

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

CARLISLE (Adams Co.)- At the Young Cooperator Seminar held Thursday, for Atlantic Dairy, 80 young farmers, mostly husbands and wives, heard reports on the financial status of the cooperative and other subjects discussed that were of importance in farm management and participation in the cooperative.

For example, Roland Freund, extension farm management agent for Franklin, Adams, York and Cumberland counties presented challenges for the prudent manager.

"Take control of your business," Freund told the young farmers. "Set production, financial and personal goals. And do this in writing."

Freund said that it was not enough to increase assets such as cows, machinery and land. You need to build equity.

"The difference between assets and equity is the debts". he said. "Build equity, track it year by year, and be sure you have the cash flow to satisfy all your obligations. Use debt constructively. Take short term loans and pay them off, before you take the next bite."

To improve profits, Freund said you need to identify what limits production and find the ways to reduce costs.

Freund said in an election year, politicians have a way of making things appear as they are not. He said things may not be as bad as some prophets of doom may want us to believe.In the recession in the early '80's unemployment was at 10 percent, now it is only 7 percent. We have a low inflation rate of only 3 percent.

Don Robinson, young farmer instructor, Garden Spot High School, presented the merits of the cooperative system. He said the main thing to learn about cooperatives is that the members are the owners of the cooperative. He said it was the retained earnings that helped the cooperative to be able to grow.

"Cooperatives do not need to get all their equity from members," Robinson said. "But they should have a large part in it because it helps them to want to use the cooperative."

Robinson listed benefits of the cooperative to be: buying power, employment opportunities, rental income and competition for other businesses. And the net profits is distributed to members.

Paul Hand, general manager, reported total assets at $74,961,912.

The young farmers heard other topics discussed, had lunch, and visited Holly Milk Plant, Atlantic's milk processing facility.

tion, and that part of Berks County was blessed with the right amount of rainfall in the growing season. Every week, the farm received about ¼ inch to 1 inch of rain, on the average. Sometimes they received ¼ or ½ inch of rain, sometimes about 2 inches, but in all, Zook didn't have an excessive amount of rain.

"We had enough to keep the corn growing, keep it alive," he said.

But rainfall worked hand in hand with the good degree days to ensure a good yield.

"This is the best crop year I've ever had. This year we had the right amount of heating degree days, we had the right amount of rain for it, and we got an excellent crop," said Zook. "Your corn likes a lot of heat. A lot of times when you have excessive rains you get a good crop. But corn needs heat, too, to make a crop."

More than variety

Zook helps the local seed representative test various varieties on his farm. Zook plants the corn and the representative takes measurements and keeps the records. But what Zook found was that a lot more than variety goes into making a championship crop.

"There's management," he said. "You have to have the right soil analysis. The timing has to be right — when it's time to plant you have to plant. When it's time to harvest you have to harvest. You have to have all those factors right, and then if you have some luck with the weather, you get a good crop."

Zook said he did not do anything differently this year than other years. His management practices are straightforward — early in the spring, he does a soil test to determine nutrient needs. Then he applies manure and chisels it into the ground to remove the odor and to provide the best plant nutrient value.

When the weather is right, Zook makes a decision to plant — usually around April 20-25. "When the weather is right I'll get out there and start planting as soon as I can," he said. "I'll go more on the weather than on the day." He said he is finished planting by May 10. "After all, you get the best yields from your early corn," he said.

Apply herbicides

A little after planting time, Zook will apply herbicides to treat for foxtail and lambsquarters. About the end of May or beginning of June, Zook will cultivate and band-apply about 80 pounds per acre of liquid nitrogen as a sidedress.

Zook, who purchased the farm in 1962, has been farming all his life. His father operated a nearby vegetable and dairy farm for many years. Zook, who manages about 130 steers and finishes about 500 hogs a year, owns about 100 acres and rents an additional 150 acres (a total of about 240 tillable).

Zook keeps about 50 acres for soybeans as a cash crop, in addition to another 50 acres of barley. The rest is in corn.

His management practices are consistent year to year, and he doesn't intend to alter them. "If I get the crop I got last year, I don't want to change anything," he said.

Rotates crop

He rotates out of corn to barley or soybeans. "The corn will do a lot better on soybeans than it will on continuous corn, yield-wise," he said.

Zook said that if a drought does come, a farmer needs to have the best management practices available.

"I'm a believer that if all management practices are right, you're going to benefit most from the weather variables you're handed," he said. "I try to do mny management in that kind of a fashion so that I will benefit from what we get."

For farmers, the corn conference will highlight climatology. Dr. Louis Thompson, retired professor of agronomy and associate dean of agriculture at Iowa State University, will talk about "Weather Cycles: What Do They Show For 1992?"

Other Corn Conference highlights include farm management, crop management, and other sessions on high-yield strategies and hybrid selection. More than 25 commercial exhibitors are expected to display products and services at the conference.

Zook operates the feed mixer inside the steer barn.

Dairy Day Speakers Focus On State Of Industry

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Now is not the time for dairy farmers to expand operations or add any additional milking cows to the herd, according to the vice president of research and planning for the Farm Credit Bank of Baltimore.

Paul Maihan, vice president with Farm Credit, said Tuesday that unless a producer is virtually debt free and has all his management skills finely honed, that producer should not consider acquiring more debt to finance a recession expansion.

Maihan, and four other speakers addressed about 200 Lancaster County dairy producers and a number of others representing related industries who attended the first day of a two-day annual county dairy days, held at the Farm and Home Center.

The second day of the county dairy day program is set from 9 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. on Tuesday, March 3, also at the center.

The first-day program included presentations from four different speakers, focusing on cow comfort, feeding for components, milk pricing and economics, and was repeated on Wednesday in Prescott for neighboring Lebanon County dairy producers.

Maihan said he is not an expert on dairy operations, so he had to do some homework before giving his presentation on considering economic cycles in developing dairy production strategies.

First he showed historic cycles of poultry and hog production and prices, pointing out the trends of producers to oversupply when prices reach reasonable profit levels, which results in reduced farm prices and collective depression to the industry.

He said that in researching dairy figures he inferred that the dairy industry will apparently continue to offer a marginally profitable opportunity for 1992.

He said that on-farm dairy prices appear to be in a cyclical downswing, but won't fall below the break-even level.

He said the U.S. Department of Agriculture has forecast milk prices to be flat for the year, while private forecasters have issued predictions of increases ranging from 4 percent ot 6 percent.

The Farm Credit Bank forecast, as compared to 1991 levels, are that the winter (we are soon ending) showed increases, but the rest of the year will be sluggish, with some rise in the fall, for an overall predicted increase of about 75 cents per hundredweight, according to Maihan.

PUMP OUT PIT FAN

Many manure storage pits have been constructed without providing for ventilation of the pit, particularly in buildings constructed several years ago when pit storage was first popular.

A non-ventilated pit results in a build-up of harmful, caustic gases, such as carbon dioxide, hydrogen sulfide, methane, ammonia and mercaptans.

Hydrogen sulfide and carbon dioxide are heavier than air and, as the level of pit waste rises closer to the slats, the gases are forced closer to the animals.

Results of inhaling these gases may be deep, fast breathing from CO^2. Hydrogen sulfide is one of the most toxic gases to animals and humans associated with liquid manure storage. This gas can cause severe irritation to the eyes and respiratory system and sometimes can result in death.

Growers Learn No Alfalfa Variety Can Compensate For Poor Management

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — Approximately 120 farmers attended the Dekalb Alfalfa Growers Seminar on Thursday to learn more about "the queen of forages."

Dr. Marvin Hall, Penn State forage specialist, spoke about the importance of looking at the breed characteristics vital to profitability in a forage stand.

There are about 90 different varieties of alfalfa in Pennsylvania, he said. Varieties to look for include those with sufficient disease and insect resistance and winter hardiness.

Growers should take special consideration with the various kinds of wilts that affect alfalfa, and, in southeastern Pennsylvania, should look at varieties that are especially resistant to anthracnose and phytophthora root rot.

Growers should consult the "Penn State 1991 Forage Trials Report," which details results of a wide array of variety trials, at local extension offices. He said growers should not concentrate so much on the multileaf traits if selecting for that variety, but for resistance to various diseases, standability, and ability to generate necessary feed nutrients.

He said growers should keep in mind that "no variety can compensate for poor management." Good management includes a variety of practices, including fertilization, weed management, establishment, and harvesting.

Hall also spoke about the various forage weeds that affect stand growth and methods to control them.

According to John C. Wysolmerski, Dekalb-Pfizer Genetics district sales manager, this is the first in an annual series of meetings to provide information important to the alfalfa grower.

along with a slide presentation of each farm receiving and award. Production awards are based on energy corrected milk (ECM). The ECM formula takes into account the protein and fat when adjusting the milk for components. This formula will help to identify cows and herds that produce high volumes of milk solids. The ECM formula is 7.2 x lbs. protein +12.95 x lbs. fat.

Each committee chairman gave a report of their activities conducted during the past year. National Director, Marlin Hoff, urged members to attend the Winter Forum Meeting to be held at the Sheraton (old Holiday Inn) in Frederick on March 4. He stressed the importance of coming with your ideas and suggestions to pass on to Brattleboro.

Joyce Bupp, a dairy farmer and Lancaster Farming columnist, entertained the ladies with her presentation of stress in farm and family duties. She encouraged them to look for humor in situations to release stress. Her remarks were entwined with humorous anecdotes in farm and family life as we face cash flow crunches, unpredictable weather, equipment and health problems, and government paperwork.

Bupp prescribed putting things around you that make you feel good, seek humor in situations, take small breaks and walk in the woods.

The youth enjoyed a trip to Herr's Potato Chip Factory and the University of Pennsylvania's New Bolton Center for Veterinary Medicine.

Only Farm Credit Has Loan Officers Who Were Trained In The Field.

While you were growing up on the farm going to 4-H, FFA, maybe even AG school, do you know what your Farm Credit loan officer was doing?

Same thing.

Not many bankers can say that.

True, they can make loans nine ways to Sunday. But, now your Farm Credit loan officer can, too. Over the last few years our people have gone through extensive training at making every kind of farm loan imaginable. Now a Farm Credit loan officer can give you the lowdown on rates, options and creative financing as well as any city banker can.

And around here, our Farm Credit loan officers have the power of approval that's equal to most bank presidents'.

So the next time you need to get a farm loan, think about this for just a moment.

Then let one of our Farm Credit loan officers prove to you what we've been saying all along.

That bankers can't be farmers. But farmers can be bankers.

A $500 scholarship was awarded to each of the following: Jill Edwards and Matt Iager, both attending Delaware Valley College; Charles Ehrhardt and Stacey Guyton, both attending Virginia Polytech Institute; Dawn Knill, University of Maryland; Joel Rudderow, Cook College at Rutgers University; Jennifer Trout, Penn State; Jimmy Allen, Overall Trophy Winner and Jenelle Rinehart, 1991 Distinguished Junior Award Winner. Tanya Iager and Mark Iager each received a $500 scholarship for Senior Record Book winners. Junior Record Book winners, Kristin Myers, and Darren Hollingsworth and Intermediate Record Book winners, April Hall and Darren Wolf each received a $100 scholarship.

Entertainment for the evening was given by Morris Jones, a dairy farmers from Saluda, South Carolina. He encouraged everyone through his humorous stories to look for the good in everything. "God gave us two ends, one to sit on and one to think with. It's up to you which end you use," he remarked. Tough times don't last forever, but tough people do!

Atlantic Breeders Reports Positive Year

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — In a series of area meetings, Atlantic Breeders Cooperative (ABC) experienced a very favorable business year in 1991 despite difficult economic conditions for dairy farmers, according to the various directors.

Harold Bollinger of Newmanstown (District 3-Lebanon Co.), James Kreider of Quarryville (District 5), and Dave Landis of Lancaster (District 4) spoke recently at area meetings. Atlantic's insemination services performed by technicians and semen sales to direct breeders increased over 1990, they reported.

A strong sire lineup provides a high level of genetics for efficient production in the future, according to Bollinger. Kreider said that ABC is working with eastern and Louisiana boards to conduct a long-range planning study concerning members' future needs and the partnership structure of Federated Genetics, a marketing organization for nonmember sales.

Each of the directors provided a slide-tape presentation on the positive views of dairy farm life as expressed by ABC members throughout the cooperative's service area.

At the Quarryville meeting, management representative Chuck Allen of Lancaster gave a step-by-step explanation of the life of a bull from procurement through its mature life. Allen also gave information about some highly progressive programs being implemented in the sire department at ABC.

During the meeting, 12 area dairy farmers were honored for Accurate and precise in worked fields, too.

White 6100 planters have gained a well deserved reputation for planting with incredibly accurate spacing at precisely the right depth.

Our short 18" aerodynamically designed seed drop and independently acting walking beam gauge wheels see to it. And our low-pressure, air metering system and edge drop seed disc singulates seeds to avoid doubles or skips.

Best of all, the row splitter and wide array of attachments allow you to plant in nearly any field condition--no-till, min-till or finely-worked--with row widths ranging from 15" to 40".

high producing hereds. Receiving merit certificates were Ken Rutt, Edgefield Farm; Levi Glick, Bartville Farm; and Leon Sensenig. Also, Kreider and Nickle, Bob and Karen Gochenaur, Singing Maple Farm, Harold England, Harry Troop, Vernon Umble, Harry Ranck, Calvin Beiler, and Marlin Beiler were honored.

At the central Lancaster meeting, management representative Harry Roth of Lancaster reported about relationships between members, employers, and management. He also talked about two important details of ABC — the bull program and the genetics and member service program.

During the meeting, 10 area dairy farmers were recognized for high producing herds, including Singing Maple, Edwin Landis, John Good, Rodney Denlinger, Rohrer Brothers, Andy Mellinger, J. Ray Ranck, Clair Landis, Leroy M. Stoltzfus, and Linden Dale Farm.

At the northwest Lancaster meeting, management representative Dave Mellinger reported that, for ABC, domestic business performed well in 1991. "The Federated Genetics Atlantic marketing arm is very important to Atlantic members," he said. Mellinger said that European sales were slow in 1991, but South American sales are growing at a fast pace. "Canadian markets are tough to get into," he said.

Dairy farmers honored at the meeting for high producing averages were Earl Landis, Marvin Witmer, Meadow Vista, Robert Brandt, Jeff Aungst, Nevin Horning, Ervin Martin, Ty Long, and Irvin G. Martin.

At the Lebanon area meeting, representative N. Alan Bair reported that, in the strong sire lineup, the "quality of people employed by Atlantic and the strong support and involvement by

Doebler's All Stars

GO WITH THE WINNERS THIS SPRING

by Ted Doebler

I'm Ted Doebler, with five proven performers you can really depend on.

I named my first All Stars last September based on their 1988-89-90 performances. And the five hybrids didn't disappoint me last fall. They racked up big numbers again in the 1991 trials.

Not that we didn't see some solid challengers. Like Doebler's newcomer 69XP that shelled out 191.9 bu. in an Augusta county, VA strip test, and 187 bu. in Berks county, PA.

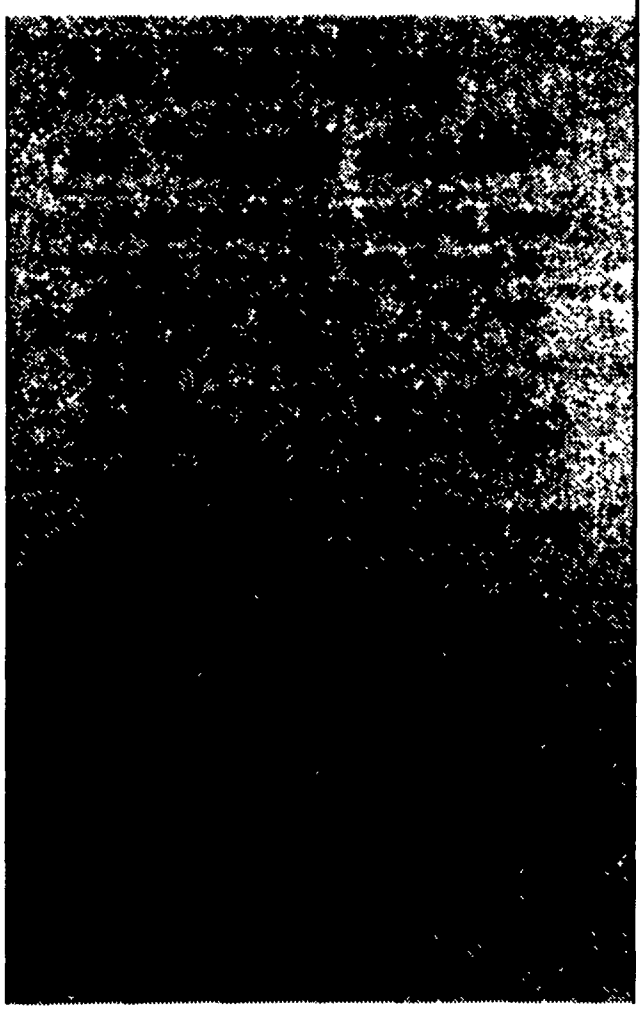
And how about upstart 86XA2. It combined 219.3 bu. at McGaheysville, VA.

But the extremely dry weather generally made much of our 1991 corn research hard to assess.

That's why I'm sticking with my original five All Stars. These hybrids made the team by shelling out big in droughty 1988, wet 1989 and "normal" 1990. These years gave us the best and worst of growing seasons. A sort of obstacle course for hybrids that's seldom matched.

The computer did the hard work, sifting through thousands of farm tests and research trials from New York to Virginia. Best five yields of every hybrid were totaled for each of the three years. Then the All Stars were selected by averaging the top 15 yields.

How well did our All Stars perform? Let's look at the records.



How All Stars run up yields

DOEBLER 84XP, 118 days. Nothing but raves from growers. Excellent disease resistance. Great standup. Superior drought rating. Top 15 average? 194.3 bu.

DOEBLER 75X, 113 days. Our best seller. And no wonder. Big ears. Sturdy stalks. And PA's all time corn champ at 281.6 bu. 1990 best: 218.6 bu. Top 15 average: 196.6 bu.

DOEBLER 66XP, 103 days. Super vigor. Great standup. Amazing yields for maturity. Like Top 15 average of 196.5 bu. And 1990 best of 27.9 tons silage, 5.4 tons TDN.

DOEBLER 45XP, 92 days. Great stalks. Healthy. Top 15 average of 169.9 bu. In 1991, 45XP made 192.5 bu. in a Rensselaer county, NY trial, 190.4 bu. at Madrid, NY.

DOEBLER 35XP, 83 days. Sturdy stalks for sure. Scant 1% stalk loss in 1989 N.Y. trials. Big yields, too. Top 15 average: 157.2 bu. 1991 best: 161.1 bu.

VALUE ANALYSIS:

These results from 1991 Penn State Yield Trials indicate that for a 50-acre alfalfa grower there can be as much as $27,600 difference using a public variety and as much as $24,800 using a leading competitive variety over the 4 yr. life of that alfalfa stand.

Don't worry about saving a Few Dollars on the Seed only to loose thousands in the Field!

Canada Floods U.S. With Export Hogs

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — If hog producers want to lay the blame for some of the poor prices because of exports, then they can blame Canada.

That's right, Canada.

According to recent industry figures, the U.S. has a huge trade imbalance on pork — approximately 4 percent of all U.S. pork consumption is imported. Of all imported pork, 54 percent comes from Canada — and that doesn't include the one million live hogs brought in from Canada annually.

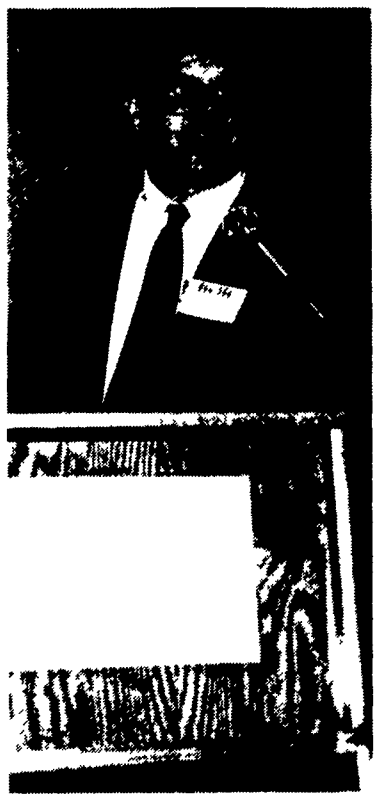
Because of the decling consumption of U.S. pork, and the increasing productivity of the industry in the country, the U.S. has had to look outside the country to export markets as "a worldwide industry," said Richard G. Klein, group manager, marketing research and services for Pfizer Animal Health. "So all of a sudden, the old trade imbalance we hear affects us also. It's not just automobiles from Japan and Germany — it's meat."

Trade imbalance

The negative trade imbalance amounts to about 1.2 billion pounds of pork, mostly hamburger, brought in from other countries, particularly Canada. Even though the U.S. is making some headway with Japan and Mexico (we are now exporting twice the amount of pork to Mexico that we used to), still, "four percent is a lot of pork," said Klein.

Kline spoke to about 130 producers on Thursday at the second annual Pfizer-sponsored Swine Serviceman's and Key Swine Producer Seminar. The seminar offered information on a variety of topics important to swine producers.

With the increases in consolidation, and more producers leaving the industry, pork producers are faced with no other choice but to become more efficient producers. The efficiency will help producers ride the sharp and short cyclic up and down prices now affecting the industry, according to Kline.



Dr. Doug Hutcheson, DVM.

Klein said that producers should net about $5 per hundredweight (after all other costs are taken into consideration). An "eternal optimist," he offered his projections for the coming years.

Belt tightening

"We're going to continue to go through a period of extreme belt tightening," he said. Some producers will continue to barely break even, if they make any money at all.

But the good news, he said, is that the cycles are becoming shorter and shorter. "We're goint to see a leveling of the sow herd a lot quicker than we have had in previous cycles. If things work out right, we'll probably end on a marginal profitability."

Domestic consumption of pork is at a "very finite level," said Klein (about 63-65 pounds per capita consumption) and the 1994 numbers "are actually going to drop about 1 pound per capita." These numbers are obtained from USDA figures and independent research conducted by a Philadelphia-based organization.

But for every 1 percent increase in the breeding herd we see, will will have "a reciprocal or a negative 2 percent reduction in hog prices and on-farm prices." In addition, sows are more productive than two years ago and genetics are improving, so hog reproductivity is on the rise.

Find a home

"If we are going to continue to expand, as we have had for the last several years, we have to find a home for those hogs," he said.

The move is on for more carcass uniformity and more consistent backfat measurements, according to Kline. Kline said that, perhaps in the future, the Midwest markets may no longer accept any hogs with a backfat measurement of more than 1 inch. Uniformity of hogs may be the most important consideration for improving outlooks.

Holstein Banquet Speaker

country, we'd be a better association," Kerr praised. He emphasized that the association is big enough, diverse enough and sophisticated enough to take care of all members needs.

The Association is looking at new products. We want to broaden our appeal without losing sight of our roots. We need to strike a balance with an eye where we've been and where we need to go. Finding programs that attract new members so we have their support is a goal of the Association.

Kerr suggested the next time President Bush goes to Japan he takes dairy farmers along. The failure of Japanese to buy American made cars is due in large part to the steering wheel being on the wrong side. "You can milk our cows from both sides", he quipped.

We need to jointly decide what the needs are of our members and to grow and diversify in areas. Kerr plans to be at the Winter Forum meeting in Frederick on March 4th to be held at the Sheraton to hear your ideas.

"The 80's were a decade of politicians trying to convince farmers all ills could be solved by the government. Over the last two to three years, most dairy farmers recognize government isn't going to do anything — that's healthy", he said. This causes farmers to focus on what they do best — manage their farms.

The M&W is not working the way it is structured now. It was set up for Grade B milk and fewer farmers produce grade B milk. The M&W has become so political. Regionalism has torn farmers apart — fighting among themselves. "Each of us need to ask how do I find a place in this decision?" Kerr suggests. "We need good leadership and need to find more control through our coops in marketing our milk."

The Association plans to expand international markets. There is a good demand for quality cattle and emerging sales opportunities for embryos and semen. We have the quality of cattle countries want, but we need to deal with trade barriers. Kuwait needs cattle to replace the 20,000 destroyed in the Gulf War, but are being supplied by Germany who is able to get them there at a lower price with government subsidies.

In the past, countries bought more cows to produce more milk. That attitude has changed to buying quality cattle to purchase more milk.

"With a Board of Directors from all over the United States, we have diversity, although a problem at times, it can help us keep from making mistakes or having a narrow view," Kerr concluded.

Those who are budgeting for 1993 should look for no increase in prices, he said.

However, Maihan said that producers contemplating expansion or adding cows to the herd in an attempt to bring in extra cash flow will most likely be disappointed.

In doing research for his presentation, Maihan said he discovered that profitability of a dairy farm seems to be related more to the managerial skills and depth of all-around knowledge than to any other factor.

He showed charts comparing the cost of producing milk and it ranged from $16.47 per hundredweight (cwt.) in 1990 for the bottom 25 percent (by profit) to $12.65 per cwt. for the top 25 percent profit makers.

He also compared that the top 25 percent earned an average of $56,643, while the bottom 25 percent lost $21,504 during the year.

However, he did not take into account variables such as years in business, source of debt, interest rates, land prices, real estate taxes, labor, family or health problems, herd health, support service availability and cost, all of which can decrease profits substantially.

He did say that there is, "No one single factor that explains profitability. Profitability is not excelling in one area, but managing all areas well. Simply increasing the number of cows will not mean profitability."

Using a scatter diagram of profitability compared to milk sold per cow, with no other factors taken into consideration, did show that there is no direct relationship between individual cow or herd production and profitability.

Of course, that is on a straight line comparison. All other things being equal, the producer with the higher producing herd can logically be expected to make more money. However, all other things are never equal.

Maihan said the differences in profitability appear to lie not so much with the cows, but with the operator or owner.

Producers should also consider estimates of a 1 percent increase in purchased items required to operate the farm and labor expenses to remain unchanged. Living expenses and fuel can be expected to rise by about 2 percent.

He said that after reviewing the data, he would recommend to the bulk of dairy producers to "consider staying the same in numbers of cows and look to pay off existing debt."

He said that with a sharp economic recovery, milk prices would increase quickly, however with the slow recovery, prices should not change significantly.

Another speaker, James Fraher, dairy economist for Atlantic Dairy Cooperative, talked about the milk check changes and the pricing changes which have occured within Federal Order 4, since the beginning of the year.

Such information has been discussed at the numerous ADC meetings already held this year, and by other representatives of organizations of dairy producers who are also under Federal Order 4.

Fraher said that most people would not experience significant difference in their net, but each dairyman will receive a different price each month, depending on market value of and the milk content of milk components, both fat and non-fat solids.

Dr. Walter Kennett, a dairy nutritionist for F.M. Brown's Sons, Inc. discussed, in a somewhat more technical way than is usually presented, the feeding of cows for milk components.

For the audience, Kennett broke down the constituents of milk, the methods by which they are produced and how that production can be influenced through feeding strategies.

Protein, he said results from two major sources, either bypass protein or microbial protein.

Since fat is still an important consideration in selling milk, since it does have a value, it should not be ignored.

Other non-fat solid components of milk include lactose, which is milk sugar. In addition to its energy value to consumers of milk, lactose in milk acts as a milk volume regulator through osmotic principle.

He said that lactose regularly is found in concentration of about 4.8 percent. He said that will almost always be unchanged because the lactose causes additional fluids to be passed across cell membranes to dilute the concentration of lactose to its 4.8 percent level.

He said that lactose levels in milk are consistent among all breeds of dairy cattle.

The components which can be changed are protein and fat.

Protein content can be increased by only a few percentage points, he said, but since the value is there, according to component pricing, knowing better how to feed for maximizing milk protein content should be considered.

In short, he said that maintaining a rumen pH of about 6 (which is slightly acidic) will create a condition in which there will be maximum simultaneous production of

Dairy Consultants Offer Advice

BIRD-IN-HAND (Lancaster Co.)-Palatable and available were the two words used to describe how feed should be presented to dairy cows, especially the high producing cows. These remarks were made by Larry Wile, district manage at the Purina dairy meeting Wednesday.

"You need to keep good quality feed in front of the cows all day," Wile said. "This feed must be of good quality and be available whenever the cows want to eat. The last 100 days of the lactation and the dry period are especially critical. The body score needs to be high or she will loose out on the next lactation. And don't overlook the need for extra minerals at this time".

Wile said five years ago we thought the increase in average production would level off. But in Lancaster County DHIA last year, average production increased by nearly 1000 pounds. In the next five years, maybe the 130 pound per day milk cow will be average. He said we need to get the extra milk and to do that we must keep challenging with feed.

"We need to keep challenging these top producing cows with feed that is balanced in energy and protein," Wile said. "Minerals, vitamins and water are also important in the total intake. To have the greatest opportunity, you must give the cow every chance to eat all she can eat.

If you hand feed with forage and grain in balance and keep the feed in front of the cow all the time, you can nearly duplicate TMR," Wile said. "But you need to keep the forage and grain in balance."

Wile said the cost of higher energy supplement to top dress the ration for high producing cows will cost about half the value of the increased milk value. The extra money you spend in this effort shows a very profitable return on investment.

The meeting attended by 100 dairy farmers also included other information of value to help manage the high producing dairy cows, and the research data on Purina's new Ultimate Ext feed that has shown considerable increase in milk production.

Lunch was served and door prizes awarded.

Outlook Conference

LEWISBURG (Union Co.) — Northeastern Farm Credit is sponsoring an agricultural outlook conference featuring the nationally known Dr. John Marten, chief economist for "Farm Journal" magazine.

Marten, who will address the topic "Production, Prices, and Politics," will speak at two different locations on March 12. The first meeting will be held at the Rockwell Center, 32 So. Turbot Avenue, Milton, from 1 p.m.-3:30 p.m. The second session will be held at the Sheraton, 100 Pine St., Williamsport, from 7 p.m.-9:30 p.m. Refreshments will be served.

For registration, contact Susan at Farm Credit at (717) 523-1201 or (800) 326-9507.

Nutrient Management

Humphries' "gentle" comment brought snickers from the audience. And Millersville farmer and State Representative John Barley, one of the prime sponsors of HB 496, called it anything but gentle. "We need to keep practical, production agriculture in mind when we look at nutrient management," Barley said.

His concern with the bill is that the language is so vague it leaves regulatory bureaucrats with too many interpretive options. Barley nevertheless sees a definite need for statewide legislation, because farm operations often transcend township and county boundaries.

Brubaker, who is also a Warwick Township supervisor, feels local legislation can get the job done, citing his own backyard as an example. In September of 1988, the township adopted an ordinance requiring farmers to get a manure management plan if they wanted to boost their animal numbers by more than 10 percent.

Shortly after the law took effect, five farmers gave notice that they wanted to expand their operations. They got nutrient management plans, the plans were approved by the township and the farmers were able to add to their businesses. This was proof, Brubaker said, that local efforts could work. However, he also expressed concern about townships adopting ordinances restricting farmers' right to farm.

More such evidence came from Garth Becker, who represents the Lancaster County Solid Waste Authority on the Forum. Lancaster County had a problem with leaves and grass going into landfills, Becker told the gathering. So the county commissioned a study of ways to get those materials onto farmlands, where they could serve as valuable fertilizer.

Using the study results, procedures were set up that brought trash haulers together with farmers who had nutrient management plans that allowed for the spreading of leaves and grass on cropland.

Local action again solved a problem, Becker noted, without any need for state help or supervision.

Whether the state gets involved in nutrient management sooner or later, farmers have already altered their operations in ways that help solve the problems of manure disposal, according to Jeffrey Stoltzfus, a Lancaster County extension agent.

As most people define the problem now, it has two parts: 1- Excessive manure applications to farmland result in the leaching of nitrates into groundwater supplies; 2- The runoff of nitrogen into nearby streams, where it eventually causes problems with aquatic life in the Chesapeake Bay.

In past years, the nitrogen problem was complicated by the fact that farmers applied both manure and commercial fertilizer, overwhelming the land's ability to absorb nitrogen.

Stoltzfus told the gathering that he had worked in a Rural Clean Water Program (RCWP) centered in the northeastern part of Lancaster County. Some 365 farmers cultivating a total of 24,134 acres participated in the RCWP. By the end of the five-year program, between 1986 and 1991, these farmers had reduced their use of commercial nitrogen fertilizer by 78 percent without suffering any loss in crop yields.

Yields remained high for these farmers because the manure applied to their croplands was sufficient - and often more than sufficient - to support maximum production.

Nutrient management planning can help farmers save significant amounts of money. And while they may have to spend some money to draw up and implement their plans, they probably won't have to spend $38,000 to do it, according to Robert Gregory of the Lancaster County Conservation District.

The $38,000 figure had been quoted in news reports from a February 12 State Senate hearing in Bloomsburg on HB 496.

One of the programs Gregory administers helps farmers pay for nutrient management plans and programs designed specifically to prevent runoff from entering streams and thence the Chesapeake Bay. The District has already signed 150 contracts with farmers who have agreed to change their operations in some way to limit runoff.

Gregory said after the meeting that while some manure storage structures can be expensive, storage isn't always necessary. Grass waterways and diversion terraces, along with more effective nutrient management procedures, can often solve on-farm problems for a $1,500 out-of-pocket cost to farmers.

Lamont Garber is an agricultural specialist with the Chesapeake Bay Foundation. He has an office in Harrisburg, just about a block-and-a-half from the Susquehanna River, which is the main carrier of nutrients and silt into the Chesapeake.

Garber pointed out that regulations which affect farmers are here already and more are on the way. He pointed to the Conservation District programs as an economical way of combatting the nutrient problem. "There are more ways than spending money to balance nutrient input with crop output," he said.

BARN PAINTING
SPRAY & BRUSHING
To farm building owners —
Under today's farm economy it is time to reduce maintenance frustrations.
Do you remember of hearing of barn painting of approximately 75 years ago that it stayed nice longer? lasted 25 years?
Observation #1 In recent years many of these good old barn surfaces have been ruined by overcoating, poor preparation and application, lack of controlled paint placement and film thickness. The time is coming to salvage our buildings (a) Start over (b) Water blast (c) RESURFACE (d) Use solid stain to penetrate on bare spots! (e) Second coat with a breathing film thickness (f) Brush out in all directions with finest of bristles.
Really it is not as complicated as the recent changing regulations on clean milk production, or wet soils, or zoning. It is also less expensive than other barn painting experiences!
Observation #2 Colored water (latex) is less desirable for farm buildings. There is a long list of reasons for this.
Observation #3 Todays painted metal siding and roofing has a remarkably short life. Bad alloy or metal. There might be another list of reasons for this. To save it at reasonable coating cost - timing is important.
Observation #4 Today's wood selection for siding etc. is also poor. How about recycling building material?

fat and protein in the milk, as long as the 10 essential amino acids are fed in addition to the 20 other acids the cow can produce in order to create protein chains.

As far as the largest producer of protein in cow, he listed microbial action in the rumen first, accountable for 80 percent of the protein which ends up in the milk. About 20 percent of the protein in milk comes from serum proteins (those from the blood stream).

He listed other contributors of milk protein in order of effectiveness after microbial protein as soybean meal in an undigestible bypass form, fish meal, brewer's grain, blood meal, distiller's grain, meat meal and corn glutten meal.

He said therefore it was important to consider the pH, the feeding of TMRs, or feeding hay followed by grains.

Feeding hay first, is believed to allow for the creation of a mat or bolus on which the microbes feed and convert starches into chemicals which are then used by the liver to make lactose. This situation allows rumen pH to be more stable and not drop to the acidic level which would reduce the microbes good for fat production and the other type creates the 10 essential amino acids from the feed.

Too high a pH interferes with the protein microbes, while too low a pH interfere with the fat microbes. A third microbe becomes more beneficial to protein production at the lower pH. He said the ideal then is try for a rumen pH around 6 in order to mutually maximize both fat and protein in the milk.

Speaking on managing and designing cow stalls for comfort was Dan McFarland, a multi-county agriculture engineer.

According to McFarland, there are a number of aspects to consider when modifying or constructing a cow barn, in addition to deciding on the general type of stall.

McFarland made no judgements on whether stanchions or free-stall set ups were better, but rather said that each type had its benefits and drawbacks, depending on operational strategy.

He recommended stall be long enough for the cow breed, allowing for example a 7-foot, 6-inch length stall from rear curb to front for Holsteins (8 feet along a solid wall); an open front; head space for foward lunging, which is the predominate preference of cows studies, of 2-feet, 4-inches to 3-feet, 4 inches; 45-degree sloping brisket boards from 8-inches to 12-inches high; step-up heights to the stall from 8 inches to 12inches; stall widths of 48 inches; 66-inches from base of brisket board to rear curb of stall; and a top rail, preferably floating.

He also said that the "U"-shaped partitions, or "loops", and variations thereof, were preferable.

However, he said that having the bedding too low can cause the animal to entrap itself, as can inadequate head room for foward lunging.

He said that a farmer gave him a good rule of thumb for determining the height of the upper rail of a partition and the height of the lower rail. He said that when the cow is standing, the upper rail should be just below cow-eye level and that when the cow is lying down, the lower rail should be in the same relationship to the cow's eye.

For choice of bedding, he reviewed the numerous applications which are being used, ranking concrete the least favorable for cow comfort and clayey earth being the most preferable by cows.

However, concrete offered the least labor to maintain, while earth required the most.

He did show slides of a farmer who has devised an earthen bed leveler that is mounted to the front of a small front-end loader and requires very little time to level all the beds in his free stall operation.

McFarland also said that having the stalls built downhill on a 3-percent to 5-percent slope encourages cows to all lie down in the same direction, which is seen as a method of creating additional cow comfort and helping to prevent cows from stepping on each others teats. Though it is not a common occurance, it can happen.

The most important aid to cow comfort however, was attention to regular and daily stall maintenance procedures, he said.

Also, McFarland said that ground limestone is not good for bedding because it serves as a suitable environment for bacteria and fungus, whereas limestone tailings, which are different, can be used effectively.

Farmer Announces Candidacy

MT. JOY (Lancaster Co.) — Wayne H. Miller, Mt. Joy has announced his candidacy for State Representative of the 37th district. His decision comes after long deliberation about the current candidates positions and current economic trends in the 37th district. Miller feels his talents can best be utilized as the next state representative for the approximately 60,000 residents of the new district.

Miller was born into an agricultural and farming family. He resides today on the 160 acre family farm. He was educated in the local school system and graduated from the Lancaster Mennonite High School in 1956.

In 1959 he married Yvonne B. Hauck. They are the parents of 4 children and the grandparents of 2. In 1959 Wayne and Yvonne served together in the alternate service program at the Maine Medical Center, Portland, Maine, where Wayne was an operating room technician for two years.

USDA Deputy Secretary Venneman Visits Pennsylvania

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — The U.S. Department of Agriculture Deputy Secretary Ann Veneman visited Pennsylvania Wednesday to meet with food and agricultural leaders in the state and to bring a message that the current federal administration is working hard to keep agriculture strong and healthy.

Veneman, who holds the second highest position in the federal agriculture department, said that the timing of her visit is not related to the timing of the re-election campaign of President George Bush. Her main mission she said was to visit as many state Food and Agriculture Councils (FACs) as possible to see which programs are being used and to get input from the states as to how the federal agency could better serve.

Nonetheless, she said Pennsylvania had been the sixth or seventh state she has visited since Feb. 1 in an effort to let constituents know what kind of services were available and also to see what services were being used.

She said that consideration is being made to creating a national FAC comprised delegates from the state agencies in order to coordinate and better manage the federal support system.

In general, she her message to farmers was that the federal government is approaching agriculture under an "ambitious agenda" to "let farmers be farmers."

She said that they are looking at ways of making things easier for farmers to access federal programs. Eight pilot programs in as many different states are currently being tested to get a better understanding of how that can be accomplished she said.

She said the main focus of the programs are to "improve services and significantly reduce the amount of red tape and paperwork farmers face when doing business with the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

The projects are called easy access and are the result of meeting USDA officials had with producers around the country, she said.

According to a news release provided by Veneman, a task force of five USDA agencies met for two days and produced about 70 ideas for improving service from the federal agencies. Representatives were from the five agencies, Agricultural Stabiliztion and Conservation Service, Soil Conservation Service, Farmers Home Administration, Federal Crop Insurance Corporation and the Office of Information Resources Management.

She said some of the changes would focus on making greater use of fascimile machines, 800-telephone number services for access and information about services, increased computer use linking ASCS and other offices directly to farmers and eventually perhaps to create a "Smart Card" — an identificatin card with farmer information encoded and update regularly so that when farmers need federal services, the majority of background information needed would be already on the cards.

The current Bush administration is working hard to make agriculture stronger she said.

U.S. Deputy Secretary Of Agriculture Ann Veneman has been visiting states in an effort to inform Food and Agriculture Councils about federal efforts to benefit agriculture and also to learn what changes might better serve the ag community.

Farm Tour Highlights Nutrient Management

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — Mark Tuesday, March 10, on your calendar for the central Maryland nutrient management farm tour.

Extension nutrient consultants and specialists and soil conservation district staff will be leading a tour of five farms in Baltimore, Carroll, and Harford counties. Visit your neighbors and learn more about:

- Integrating nutrient sources for greater profits.
- New nutrient legislation.
- Computer software.
- Recent advances in application equipment.
- Equipment calibration.
- Soil conservation and cost-share programs.
- Manure handling/storage systems.

The tour begins at 8:30 a.m. at Stuart and Carroll Leister's farm near Hampstead in Carroll County. Free lunch and transportation is available. To reserve lunch and/or transportation, please call the Baltimore, Carroll, or the Harford county extension offices no later than March 5.

Novice Shepherd Shears Champion Fleece

Joyce Bupp
York Co. Correspondent

GLEN ROCK (York Co.) — Greta Dise is quick to tell you how much she needs to learn about the sheep raising business.

Still, this fledgling shepherd took her first fleece entry to the 1992 Farm Show in January — and sheared off the grand champion honors.

The winning fleece is a lustrous, dark-colored wool, in shades of black and brown. Greta has it stored carefully in her Glen Rock farmhouse, waiting for just the right project or wool artisan.

"I'm afraid to do anything with it myself," she grins. "I might mess it up."

This newcomer to flock-tending has not "messed" up as far as getting a solid foundation of stock or in searching out good advice when she needs management direction.

Having spent her childhood years in local small towns, Greta had no background of farm life or livestock tending when she and Bob married 18 years ago. He grew up on the Roger Dise family's dairy, poultry, and crops farm, where the couple now resides.

The couple spent the early years of their marriage living in town. Greta is employed at AMP, Inc., as a cable machine operator.

"When we lived in town, life just went along smoothly," recalls Greta, adding with a laugh, "Then Bob decided he'd like to be on the farm."

She recalls the sort of culture shock she faced the first time an old tractor he bought took off down the hill and ran into the meadow swamp. Greta also looks back and laughs that she knew absolutely nothing about farm equipment, and "didn't know a plow from a baler."

But, she quickly grew to love country living and the spacious farm house with plenty of room for her crafts and culinary arts. With plenty of pasture room on the hill behind the farmstead, Greta decided two years ago that she would like to keep a few sheep.

"I just like sheep. They're smaller animals to handle and work with," she figured. "What I didn't know was that there are so many different breeds of sheep; now we drive around and I see breeds of sheep I never knew existed."

Greta became interested in natural colored sheep through a classified ad for a small flock for sale.

"They were different," she said of the 17 dark-fleeced Border Leicesters brought home to the Dise barn in May of 1990. The five ram lambs that came with the flock were sold, and the rest kept for foundation stock. Ten more ewe lambs were added, from the well-known Border Leicester flock of Randy Irwin, Freeland, Maryland. Bloodlines of Greta's first purchases had also originated from Irwin's flock.

Three crossbreds purchased from a friend, 17 Cheviots acquired through another newspaper ad, and the purchased of a champion Border Leicester ram from Irwin rounded out Greta's acquisitions.

Bob has renovated parts of the bank-style dairy barn for lambing pens and feeding areas more suitable to the smaller size of sheep. A baby monitor in the barn alerts the Dise's if a ewe is in distress. Last year though, little help was needed to deliver their 19 lambs, with about half twin births.

"We only had to help with one and only saw one born," says Greta of their first lambing experience. All ewe lambs were kept last year, expanding the flock to the 40 expected to lamb through early May.

Greta was "talked into" entering her first fleece competition last spring, while tracking down information last spring on the York Sheep and Wool Producers' annual festival. She entered two fleeces, took the champion award with one and sold them both. As a novice, Greta had not kept a record of the sources of the fleeces as they were sheared, and had no way of knowing which animal grew the champion fleece.

Pleased with the unexpected success, Greta entered another seven of her colored fleeces in the popular Maryland Sheep and Wool Festival, held in May at the Howard County Fairgrounds. When she and Bob returned to retrieve the entries, none remained. One had earned a second place at this large show - and every one had sold.

The Maryland event draws both exhibitors and spectators from up and down the eastern seaboard, including many wool artisans. While commercial demand for natural fleeces is limited, because the dark hairs repel dye color, quality one are eagerly snatched up in the niche market sesrving homespinners and craftspersons.

It was the fleece from their Irwin-bred, show-winning ram that took the Pennsylvania Farm Show champion rosette over dozens of entries from across the state. Greta was especially thrilled with the prize, since natural colored fleeces rarely win such a top honor in competition among all breeds.

Producing a quality fleece remains a priority for Greta, who hopes to expand sales to wool artisans looking for raw crafting fiber. Her long-range flock plans are to concentrate solely on breeding and developing Border Leicesters. Rations of hay and a 14-percent protein coarse grain mix, along with pasture, comprise the feeding program aimed at maintaining high-grade fleeces production.

For management information, Greta often calls for advice from breeder-showman Randy Irwin and from her good friend Cindy Soth, who operates a custom shepherding management business from her Harford County, Maryland home. She also has acquired a small library of sheep-related books and studies them when new problems or questions arise.

Among those books are some wool-craft oriented ones, including instructions on spinning. With a book propped near her spinning wheel, Greta is teaching herself to spin her home-grown wool into yarn for use with her knitting needles.

Pale shadings of color in the white yarns she spun were the result of earlier experiments with dyeing wools in casserole dishes in her oven. While to date Greta has only tried commercial dyes on her wool, one project of the future is to grow and use flowers and plants suitable as natural dyes for wool. According to Greta, tomato stems are just one familiar natural dye source and reportedly color wool a lovely green shade.

Both Greta and their 18-year-old Michelle enjoy working with a wide variety of both decorative and "household" crafts and skills, from soapmaking to drying foods. The 47 ribbons she won at the York Fair last September included some for fleeces, but many for entries of homecrafted items like soaps, breads, and jellies.

Someday, Greta Dise hopes to exhibit not only fleeces and crafts, but her sheep as well. It's that dream, that motivation, that coaxes her from a warm bed on a cold February night — in case a possible future champion needs a little helping hand.

Greta Dise is saving her Farm Show champion fleece for future use.

Homestead Notes

Ewes growing heavy with wool and lambs cluster around Greta for a snack of their favorite grain.

One of these Border Collie puppies will be trained to assist herding the flock.

"Microwave Magic"

By:
Carol Stark

Nothing is better than homemade cookies. Bought cookies today are very expensive and usually seem to have the same flavor, same crunchy taste. Furthermore, if we all had the time, I am sure we would all prefer homemade over bought anyway. Cookies will not brown in a microwave oven since the cooking time is so short. Many of the recipes below will have dark colored sugars and spices to give them a browned appearance. Cookies bake well on a high temperature plastic baking sheet lined with either waxed paper or parchment paper. Place cookies 2 inches apart on the paper. The waxed paper or parchment paper will then easily slide off the cookie sheet onto a counter or table. Cookies are done when they are set but still moist. Allow cookies to cool slightly, although not completely, before removing them from waxed paper. Cookies will become crisper as they cool.

Snicker Doodle Cookies

½ cup butter
½ cup sugar
¼ cup dark brown sugar, firmly packed
1 egg
½ teaspoon vanilla
1¾ cups all purpose flour
1 teaspoon cream of tartar
½ teaspoon baking soda
¼ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons sugar
1¼ teaspoons cinnamon

Cream butter and sugars in large mixing bowl. Beat in egg and vanilla. Combine flour, cream of tartar, baking soda and salt. Blend into creamed mixture. Chill. Shape dough into ¾ inch diameter balls. Roll in mixture of sugar and cinnamon. Place 12 balls on high temperature plastic baking sheet lined with waxed paper. Cook a dozen at a time for 1 minute and 30 seconds or to 2 minutes, or until still slightly moist around the edges. Allow cookies to cool slightly before removing from waxed paper. Repeat with remaining cookies. (You may want to turn cookie sheet halfway through cooking.)

Thumbprint Cookies

⅔ cup butter
⅓ cup sugar
2 eggs, separated
1 teaspoon vanilla
½ teaspoon salt
1¾ cups sifted all purpose flour
¾ cup finely chopped pecans
½ cup preserves

Cream butter and sugar until fluffy in large mixing bowl. Stir in egg yolks, vanilla and salt, beating well. Gradually stir in flour. Mix well. Shape dough into ¾ inch diameter balls. Dip in slightly beaten egg whites and then roll in pecans. Place 12 balls on high temperature plastic baking sheet lined with waxed paper. Make thumbprint in each. Cook a dozen at a time on HIGH power for 1 to 1½ minutes or until firm but slightly moist. Allow cookies to cool slightly before removing from waxed paper. Fill "thumbprints" with preserves before serving. Repeat with remaining cookies.

Easy Oatmeal Cookies

1 9 oz. package spice cake mix
1¼ cups quick cooking or old-fashioned rolled oats
¼ cup all purpose flour
¼ cup vegetable oil or ¼ cup shortening, melted
¼ cup milk
1 egg
2 tablespoons dark brown sugar
1 cup raisins
½ cup chopped nuts (optional)

Mix together all ingredients, except raisins and nuts, in large mixing bowl. Stir in raisins and nuts. Drop by teaspoons onto high temperature plastic baking sheet lined with waxed paper. Cook a dozen at a time. Cook in microwave on HIGH power for 1 minute, 10 seconds to 1 minute, 20 seconds or until firm but slightly moist. Allow cookies to cool slightly before removing from waxed paper. Repeat with remaining cookies.

For The Kids To Make-Marshmallow Treats

¼ cup butter or 1 stick
4 cups miniature marshmallows or 40 large marshmallows
5 cups toasted rice cereal

Place butter in 2 quart dish. Heat in microwave on HIGH power for 45 to 60 seconds or until melted. Stir in marshmallows, coating with butter. Microwave on HIGH power for 2 to 2½ minutes or until marshmallows are melted. Stir in cereal. Mix until well coated. Pat evenly into dish. Let stand until cool and set. Cut into squares.

Cheers Celebrations

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Pennsylvania dairy farmers through the Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program will once again offer the CHEERS, non-alcoholic dairy beverage program, for students, community leaders and parents to use at prom and graduation celebrations. The program's focus is to turn students away from the more harmful beverages associated with teenage celebrations.

CHEERS was created several years ago in response to community and school concerns about safe entertaining and underage drinking and driving. CHEERS is a complete marketing campaign designed to help consumers, students, and families celebrate in a style that is most comfortable to them. The program's foundation is a series of kitchen-tested recipes that substitute milk and milk products for alcoholic beverages in popular mixed drinks, punches and cocktails.

"We have been pleased with the public's interest and support of the CHEERS program," said Betsy Dupuis, PDPP communications director. "Last year, more than 130 schools used CHEERS, milk-based beverages at their prom and graduation parties. We hope that even more Pennsylvania schools will join our program and provide festive, yet safe, entertaining environments for their students."

As part of the program, participating schools can receive a free CHEERS party pack from the dairy farmers. The party pack includes a banner, table tents, recipe brochures, festive beverage napkins, and designated driver stickers. All packs are provided for prom and graduation celebrations whether organized by students, schools, or parents.

The dairy farmers go one step further by helping party planners serve CHEERS to their guests. For planners that serve a CHEERS beverage, a $35 reimbursement is provided for milk, ice cream, and related dairy products used to prepare a CHEERS beverage. To qualify, schools have to submit a photo of their CHEERS punch bowl display, a copy of the CHEERS recipe they used, and copies of recipes for dairy products.

To receive the free CHEERS party pack and information about a dairy product reimbursement, party planners should provide the following information on a piece of paper: name, school name, type of celebration, number of students, phone number, and address. They can mail this information to: CHEERS, the Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program, 2301 North Cameron Street, Harrisburg, PA, 17110-9408.

Additional information about the CHEERS program is available by calling (717) 787-6903.

On being a farm wife - And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

Worthless. I have become totally worthless.

Well, certainly for a couple of hours every night.

Worthlessness hits me like clockwork, every four years. It sets in with the opening ceremonies of the Winter Olympics and runs through the closing pageantry of the international games.

Normally, television plays a very minor role in our lives, tuned in mostly for news and news-oriented shows, entertainment specials, and the occasional better movie. Most evenings, the Farmer falls asleep during the first commercial aired. I watch, off and on, while reading something.

But the Olympics are another story. One second of eye contact with swooshing skiers, twirling ice skaters or daredevil lugers and my resolve to tackle some evening-type job turn worthless. My evening-type jobs are waaaay behind schedule.

You know, evening-type jobs like after-chores walks with the dog, writing checks, posting to the account book, filing bills, writing notes, playing with the cat and sometimes even, in desperation because we've run out of jeans, mending.

Determined to do better this round of Olympic games, I set out to avoid the easy chair's enticing temptation to get glued to the tube too early in the evening.

A few of the more pleasant nights whitewashed with moonlight won the dog a little of the attention and ballplaying he craved. And the cat was temporarily contented with a string dangled across the floor while I unloaded the dishwasher. During commercials. Also handy for taking between-event showers, returning phone calls and assembling snack foods.

If you spoke with me recently during Olympic broadcast time - and I made less sense than usual - blame it on my emotional response to ice dancers falling after a difficult spin or alpine speeders crashing through a stretch of safety fence.

After a week of Olympic-induced TV hypnosis, the guilt was piling up as high as the stacks of paperwork and open-toed socks. Olympics-watching was going to have to become a combined event with household tasks.

I set a new world record for mending socks the first night.....39 minutes, 4 and .3 seconds to pull together one small half-inch hole in one sock. Surely an effort worthy of a gold medal in the slowpoke competition.

One race in which my time has improved significantly is the micro-pop event. But our microwave has not yet made it much past the four-minute mark in zapping a bag of popcorn, which fortunately fits into most commercial breaks. Unlike the winter games, it does not involve snow or ice; however, clean socks racing to the microwave across a slick kitchen floor approximates the mood of speed skating.

We'll keep practicing this one 'til we have the popcorn event in the bag. Or out-snack our sweat suit size.

Accounting-by-easy-chair proved a most challenging event in a new setting. Normally this marathon is run over the kitchen table, where checkbook stubs, calculator, bills, etc. can be spread out for easy access. The easy-chair location offered limited space, requiring lap-juggling of the accounting book and bills for posting.

I was just getting the accounting mandatory moves down to a workable program (during commercials) when an unplanned handicap complicated matters. The cat showed up for her regular every-evening Lap Time.

She whined, fussed, grumbled at the full lap; then grudglingly curled up so that only her whiskers tangled in the turning pages. Out of a perfect score of 6.0, our accountant will probably award about a 1.9 for this effort.

Good thing the Olympics is about over, before they find a replacement for me on this team.

Except no one else will do it for the same salary.

If It Tastes Good, Buy It

Joyce Bupp
York Co. Correspondent

BALTIMORE (Maryland) — If they don't like the taste of it, the majority of American consumers aren't going to eat it.

Nutritionists must approach food recommendations keeping that fact in the forefront, according to American Dietetic Association president Judith Dodd.

Dodd is a registered dietician with a Pittsburgh-based community practice specializing in group education and communication. She spoke to 100 Baltimore-area health and nutrition professionals attending the annual meeting of the Upper Chesapeake Bay Dairy Food and Nutrition Council, held February 20 at the Guest Quarters Suite Hotel.

"Why do you eat the things you do?" she questioned, then responded with the "honest" answer, "Because it tastes good, or I like it."

"If it doesn't taste good, they'll stop eating it," Dodd warned of trying to take nutrition messages to a public that can "quickly get turned off."

Nutritionists are steering away from the perception of "good" and "bad" foods, seeking a more middle-road approach which encourages variety and moderation. Choices need to be reasonable, according to Dodd, based on dietary guidelines.

"It takes a careful balancing act to bring reason to the table," she added. "We must be practical in dealing with providing nutrition information. We must fit all foods in the diet."

Because people may overreact to what they hear about dietary recommendations, Dodd expressed concern that some children may not be getting adequate fats and carbohydrates needed for healthy growth.

"We have this perception that fat is not good and every food must meet a low-fat standard — a standard they're not even sure of," said Dodd, adding that eliminating red meats and dairy foods is "not the way to go."

Food choices, she noted, are influenced by factors including childhood experiences, heritage, emotions, and health beliefs and are very personal to every individual.

But it must taste good. Studies cited by Dodd supported taste as the key factor in food choices, with nutrition second in importance. Price was ranked third in food selection.

The exception to that study came in 1988, during the controversial issue of the use of the chemical Alar on apples, when safety surpassed nutrition as second to taste.

Food-choice market research shows a three-way split of consumer reaction to diet and nutrition recommendations. Largest group, at 38 percent, was an "I know I should be, but..." category, who are aware of dietary recommendations but do not heed them too seriously. Second-high group, 36 percent, fell into the "Don't bother me" category, ignoring dietary guidelines. An "I'm already doing it" grouping was the smallest at 26 percent.

Dodd also focused on increasing numbers of children who are taking responsibility for their own eating habits, due to changing family demographics and less time spent with adult caregivers.

Studies show that 87 percent of children cook or make some of their own meals, including 80 percent who prepare their own breakfasts and 83 percent fixing their own snack choices. Children were most likely to consume a healthier balance of foods when they ate with an adult caregiver.

"We need the support of family-like settings where children eat," advises Dodd. Nearly ⅔ of children survived did indicate family dining at dinner, correlating with those who rated their own and their parents diets as nutritionally good.

MARCH IS NATIONAL NUTRITION MONTH

The month of March is designated as National Nutrition Month, a time set aside to make us all aware of the importance of proper nutrition. Research continues to reveal that the way we eat has a great deal to do with how we look and feel.

The total supply of food in the United States provides more than enough nutrients for everyone's needs. However, research studies show that some groups in our population are not meeting the recommended nutrient levels.

Girls and women from the age of nine years and up tend to have diets low in calcium and iron. Teenage girls and women over 35 have problems with thiamine, one of the B vitamins. Men over 35 tend to be low in calcium. The average diet of preschool children is low in iron.

Although some American diets are low in some nutrients, they are not low in calories. That's why many people have problems with obesity. The average American consumes far more calories than they expend.

During National Nutrition Month, why not try replacing fried, sugary, baked, and confectionery products with dairy products and enriched bread and cereal products? These will provide you with more calcium and iron and the B vitamins, and with less calories.

THE WORST CHOICES IN THE SUPERMARKET

The best way to save money in the supermarket is to make careful choices when you shop. Here are a few of the worst choices you can make, in terms of what you get for your money.

- Bacon, hotdogs and spareribs because you get less meat, more fat or bone than in most other cuts of meat.
- Fruits out of season. Such fruits have traveled a long way and melons especially are apt to be small and not very good.
- 3-1/4 oz. size cans of tuna fish because the price per can may be low but the price per pound is the highest of any size can of tuna.
- Hamburger helper because you are paying a great deal for a pinch of herbs, some dried tomato sauce, and about 1¼ cups of macaroni. And you still have to buy the meat. That is a very high price to pay for convenience.
- Individual pudding cups because there is a lot of packaging and a very little bit to eat. And the pudding is not very tasty.
- Frozen vegetables in sauce because with all the sauce there are less vegetables. That means you get less of the nutrients from the vegetables and more fat and calories from the sauces. Plus, a high price tag for convenience.

Never forget! Almost any food you prepare at home will be more nutritious than a highly processed convenience food.

Control Your Money

HONESDALE (Wayne Co.) — Have you ever run out of money before your next paycheck?

Money won't take care of itself. Someone must manage or control it. It is a skill that you can learn. As with any skill, you need someone to show you how and then, you need to practice to improve your skill.

Debra Bryant, Wayne County Cooperative Extension director, is offering free classes in money management. Some of the things you'll learn include: how to keep simple, accurate records, four different methods of keeping track of where your money goes, how to develop spending and saving plans, and cost-cutting ideas to help you stick to your spending plan.

March 10, "Tracking Your Spending" — Where Does All the Money Go? Part 1, 7 p.m. to 9 p.m., Wayne County Extension office meeting room, basement of the original court house, Honesdale. Enrollment limited to 40 people. This class will cover how to keep simple accurate records and a short video tape will show you four different ways you can keep track of where you spend your money.

March 17, — "Making Ends Meet" - Developing a Spending Plan, Part 2, 7 p.m. to 9 p.m., Wayne County Extension meeting room, basement of the original court house, Honesdale. Enrollment limited to 40 people. This class is a follow-up of "Tracking Your Spending". Participants should bring their income and expense figures and we will use them to develop a spending plan or budget that fits their needs. You will also learn some cost-cutting ideas to help you stick to your new spending plan.

March 24, — "Living on Less", 7 p.m. to 9 p.m., Wayne County Extension meeting room, basement of the original court house, Honesdale. Layoffs, cutbacks, or loss of a job are traumatic whether it means losing all the family income or a second income that your family depends on to make ends meet. It is possible to survive these income drops.

For more information or to register for any of these free classes, contact the Wayne County Cooperative Extension Office 717/253-5970 ext. 239.

Hot Potato Recipes

Some people feel that the better food is for you, the worse it tastes. Potatoes proudly break that rule by tasting so good that kids love them and so nutritious they supply nearly all of the nutrients you need for survival.

As a matter of fact, potatoes taste so good, people forget that they are nutritious. Not only are potatoes low in calories (about 125 for a medium potato), but they are a good source of vitamins B and C, potassium, phosphorus, and iron.

CHEEZY POTATOES

10 medium potatoes, sliced
1 small onion, sliced
1 cup milk
1 cup grated American cheese
6 slices bologna
1 teaspoon salt

Combine potatoes, onion, bologna, and salt in water and cook. When potatoes are tender, add milk and cheese. Melt cheese, then place in baking dish and bake until brown, at 400 degrees.

Lycoming Co. Dairy Princess
Shannon Peterman

POTATO POUCHES

6 baked potatoes
¾ cup milk
1 cup grated cheddar cheese
¼ cup butter

Slice the top off each baked potato. Scoop out potatoes without breaking the skins and mash. Add butter, milk, cheese, salt, and pepper, if desired. Blend well. Put potatoes back in skins and return to oven until potatoes are a little brown on the top.

PERKY PEAS'N POTATOES

¾ cup milk
1 8-ounce package cream cheese, cubed
¼ cup grated Parmesan cheese
½ teaspoon onion salt
1-pound can whole small potatoes, heated and drained
10-ounce package frozen peas, cooked and drained

Heat milk and cream cheese over low heat, stirring until smooth. Add Parmesan cheese over low heat, stirring until smooth. Add Parmesan cheese and onion salt; mix well. Add vegetables, pour into serving dish, sprinkle with additional Parmesan cheese, if desired.

Carlisle

DELICIOUS POTATO CASSEROLE

10 potatoes
1 medium onion, optional
½ cup butter
½ cup Velveeta cheese
½ cup milk
Salt and pepper to taste

Boil the potatoes until almost soft. Cool and shred with shredder. Chop onion fine. Grate cheese and mix in. Melt butter with milk and pour over potatoes. Bake 1 hour at 350 degrees.

Contributor writes that this is a good recipe for Sunday dinner because potatoes may be cooked the day before.

PA. DUTCH POTATO FILLING

Brown 1 small onion in 2 tablespoons shortening. Mix together:
1 cup mashed potatoes
2 beaten eggs
4 slices bread, tear in small pieces

Pour on top:
1 cup milk

Add onions, salt and pepper. Mix well. Put in greased casserole dish and bake 1 hour at 350 degrees.

Onions can be omitted and substituted with parsley flakes and other seasonings. This is a good way to use leftover mashed potatoes. Serves 2.

POTATO FILLING

5 pounds potatoes
¼ cup cream
½ stick butter
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
Garlic head
3 onions
¼ pound mushrooms
Pinch sage
Pinch parsley
3 eggs, beaten
Soy sauce

Cook potatoes. Mash with cream, butter, salt, and pepper.

Add sauteed garlic, 3 onions, ½ pound mushrooms, sage, and parsley.

Add eggs to mashed potatoes. Add sauteed vegetables and soy sauce. Mix well and bake at 350 degrees until brown.

Ann Keller
Bath

This flavorful combination of crumbled bacon, roasted potatoes, and green beans blended with a savory dressing of wine vinegar, chives, and dijon mustard is the perfect accompaniment to any meal.

PA. DUTCH POTATO FILLING

6 medium potatoes (instant can be used)
3 eggs, beaten
½ cup warm milk

Simmer the following in 1 cup butter:
3 ribs celery, chopped
1 large onion
¼ cup parsely
Sage, optional

3 to 4 slices toasted and cubed white bread cubes. Cook and mash potatoes. Add milk and eggs. Add bread to vegetable mixture and fold in potatoes. Serve immediately or put in casserole and bake at 350 degrees until crust forms on top. Freezes well.

BAKED TUNA STUFFED POTATOES

4 large potatoes, scrubbed and pricked
7-ounce can tuna, flaked
1-ounce butter
5-ounces sour cream
Salt and pepper
4-ounces bacon, chopped

Bake the potatoes in 350 degree oven for 1½ to 2 hours, until just tender.

Slice the tops off the potatoes and scoop out the flesh, leaving a thin shell. Mash the potato flesh, then stir in the tuna with its oil, butter, sour cream, and seasoning.

Spoon the tuna mixture back into the potato shells and mark the surface with a knife. Place the bacon on top of the potatoes. Place the potatoes in a shallow dish and return to oven at 425 degrees for 20 to 25 minutes.

POTATO PIE

1 unbaked pie shell
1½ cups diced potatoes
2 hard-boiled eggs, diced
1 small onion, diced
½ cup milk
2 tablespoons butter

Line an 8 or 9-inch pie pan with unbaked pie shell. Mix potatoes, eggs, and onion together and pour into pie shell.

Add milk and butter. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Cover with top crust and bake at 375 degrees for 1 hour or until done. Serve piping hot.

Helen Nolt

SMOKED SAUSAGE STEW

6 or 7 medium potatoes, cubed
2 medium onions, diced
Salt and pepper
1 medium stalk celery, diced
1 pound smoked sausage
3 carrots, diced

Peel and cube potatoes, cover with water, add celery, onions, and carrot. Add seasoning. Cut sausage in 1-inch pieces and add. Simmer until potatoes are done. Serve with chow-chow.

Looking for something different that cooks in a hurry, is low in calories and in fat content and can be prepared in an endless number of ways?

Try fresh ground chicken, one of the newest products in the supermarket poultry case.

Made from boneless, skinless thigh meat, ground chicken contains only 10 percent of less fat. It can be used in almost any recipe that calls for ground beef. As with all poultry products, ground chicken should be cooked thoroughly and never served rare.

A tip for handling raw ground chicken: wet hands with cold water to make it easier to form chicken into patties or meatballs.

DO AHEAD GROUND CHICKEN LASAGNA

1 pound ground chicken
16 ounces tomatoes
6 ounces tomato paste
1½ tablespoons chopped parsley, divided
1½ teaspoons salt, divided
1 teaspoon basil
6-ounces lasagna noodles
16 ounces cottage cheese
1 egg, beaten
¼ teaspoon pepper
6-ounces mozzarella cheese, shredded
¼ cup grated Parmesan cheese

Heat frypan over medium high temperature. Add ground chicken and brown, stirring, about 6 minutes. Pour tomatoes, tomato paste, ½ tablespoon of the parsley, 1 teaspoon salt and basil into food processor container; process about 1 minute. Stir tomato mixture into ground chicken and simmer over low temperature about 20 minutes. In medium bowl, mix together remaining 1 tablespoon parsley, remaining ½ teaspoon salt, cottage cheese, egg and pepper. In bottom of 2-quart shallow baking dish, spoon a little of ground chicken mixture. Layer noodles (uncooked), cottage cheese mixture, mozzarella cheese, Parmesan cheese, and ground chicken mixture. Repeat layers but save Parmesan cheese for topping. Cover and let sit in refrigerator overnight. Bake in 375 degree oven for 30 minutes. Let stand about 10 minutes and cut into squares. Makes 6 servings.

Joan Loeb Heads Berks County Farm Women

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

OLEY (Berks Co.) — When she was 19 years old, Joan Loeb joined Farm Women on what she called a "challenge."

At that time, Farm Women members were selective on whom they allowed to become a member. Joan heard about two applicants who had just been refused membership. Out of curiosity, she decided to apply and see if they would accept her.

They did. Since then, Joan has had four children and four grandchildren, but her interest in Farm Women never has faltered. She now heads the Berks Farm Women with its 11 societies and 183 members. In 1985, Joan had also been president of the county groups.

Unlike the era when Joan was installed as a Farm Women member, she finds that now it is difficult to attract new members because of busy lifestyles. In order to accomodate women who work during the day, Joan's society has changed from daytime to night meetings. Even with that change, it is difficult for many women to find time for the meetings because of other community, church, and family responsibilities.

Joan adamantly supports Farm Women and their projects. She is excited about the upcoming project, "Food for the Homeless," which will be held on Agriculture Day, March 20.

For that members are collecting imperishable food items to donate to the Greater Berks Food Banquet.

This is the second year for the Farm Women project. Last year, they collected 400 pounds of food. This year, they expect more because 4-H, FFA, and the Farm-City Council are also participating in the project. Those who would like to donate to this project, may call Joan at (215) 689-5579.

Because five members out of the 17 members in Joan's Farm Women Group are in their 80s, Joan said, they need to be selective in choosing activities in which all can participate.

"We go on lots of field trips, eat a lot, and volunteer at a local county home," Joan said. County members have hosted two state Spring Rallys, the latest was last year.

Joan is married to Richard Loeb. They have three daughters 25, 24, and 22, and a 10-year-old son.

Joan said the advantage of having a younger son after the older children are gone is that it is not difficult to adjust to the noise of grandchildren.

Joan serves as secretary to the Berks Heim County Home Volunteer Board. She spends a lot of time helping her daughter and son-in-law who have two children and work on a dairy farm.

In her spare time, Joan likes to quilt, cross stitch, and help people. She also loves cooking but not cleaning up. Here is one of her favorite recipes.

TUNA POT PIE

1½ cups diced potatoes
1½ cups carrots, diced
1 cup peas
3 tablespoons chopped onions
Milk

Cook vegetables until soft; drain liquid in cup, add enough milk to make 1¾ cups liquid.

¼ cup butter
¼ cup flour
1 can tuna
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
Pie dough for top pastry

Melt butter, blend in flour, add liquids. Stir until thick, pour over vegetables. Add tuna and seasoning. Put in 1½ -quart casserole. Roll out pie dough and place on top of casserole for top crust. Bake at 400 degrees for 25 to 30 minutes.

Joan Loeb
Berks Co. Farm Women
president

The Society of Farm Women of Pennsylvania was founded October 14, 1914. Its purpose is to contribute to the power and influence of the farm home; to contribute to the community activity of farm women; to develop leadership and to promote better living and working conditions in the farm homes of Pennsylvania. The 16 county societies have a state membership of 3,371. Check this section weekly for a feature story on individual Farm Women presidents from Pennsylvania.

CHEESE POTATO CASSEROLE

2 pounds frozen hash browns, thawed
1 can cream of chicken soup
¼ cup butter, melted
1 small onion, diced
16-ounce container sour cream
Salt
Pepper
8-ounce package grated cheddar cheese

Mix together all ingredients except cheese. Place in casserole; sprinkle with cheese. Bake at 350 degrees for 1 hour. Makes 10 to 12 servings.

Allison Martin
Lebanon Co. Dairy Maid

ANSWER — Helen B. Henry, Macungie, requested a recipe for fried noodles. Thanks to Shaune Uhler, Boyertown, for sending a recipe.

Fried Noodles

1 cup flour
3 eggs, beaten
1½ cups milk
¼ cup vegetable oil

Beat flour into eggs until smooth. Gradually stir in milk to make a thin batter. Cover and let stand in refrigerator about one hour. Heat a six- to seven-inch crepe pan or a small heavy skillet so that it sizzles when sprinkled with water. Brush pan lightly with oil before making each crepe. Fill a quarter-cup measure half full with batter. Pour into center of pan; tilt and rotate pan to spread batter evenly. Cook over medium heat about one minute, until top of crepe is dry and bottom is lightly browned. Turn with a small metal spatula and cook reverse side about 20 seconds. Repeat this process, using all batter. Makes about 18 crepes. Stack the crepes, about 6 together, and cut with a sharp knife into one-inch strips — then separate.

Pour vegetable oil into a saucepan or deep-fat fryer to a depth of one and one-half inches. Heat to 350 degrees. Fry just a handful at a time until golden brown and crisp — about 1 minute.

Drain the strips on paper towels. May sprinkle with mixture of 2 tablespoons ground cinnamon and 2 tablespoons granulated sugar.

ANSWER — Barbara Randall, Holcomb, N.Y., requested recipes for hors d' oeuvres, especially those that can be prepared ahead of serving time. Thanks to Mrs. Shaune Uhler, Boyertown, for sending recipes.

Chicken Livers and Bacon

Cut fresh livers into inch-sized pieces, wrap with 3-inch slices of bacon, fasten with a toothpick. Place on a flat pan with small sides and bake at 325 degrees for 25 minutes. Serve hot.

Lebanon Wedges

1 pound Lebanon bologna
8-ounces cream cheese

The day before serving, leave cream cheese at room temperature until pliable. Spread cheese evenly on slice of Lebanon. Top with another slice of meat. Continue until you have five layers of cheese. Wrap snuggly in clear wrap. About an hour before serving, unwrap and cut into 8-inch wedges. Cutting is easier if you secure slices with four to six toothpicks. Arrange on platter with sprigs of parsley.

ANSWER — Donna Treese, Quarryville, requested a recipe for English muffins that taste like those made by Thomas. Thanks to Susan Breckbill, Lincoln University, for sending a recipe.

English Muffins

Heat in a saucepan to 130 degrees:
1½ cups milk
¼ cup margarine
In large mixer bowl, combine:
2 tablespoons sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1 package dry yeast
1½ cups flour

With mixer on low speed, gradually add liquid. Increase speed and beat 2 minutes. Beat in:
1 egg
1 cup flour
With spoon, add:
2 cups flour or enough to make a stiff dough

Turn onto flour surface and knead about 2 minutes. Place dough into a greased bowl. Cover. Let rise until double, about 1½ hours. Punch down. Turn onto floured surface. Cover with bowl and let rest 15 minutes. Roll dough to ⅜ -inch thick. Cut into 3-inch circles. Place on cookie sheet. Cover let rise about 45 minutes. Brush frying pan with salad oil and heat in electric frying pan set at 250 degrees. Cook 8 minutes on each side. Repeat until all are cooked. To serve, split muffins and toast. Makes 18 muffins.

PARTY POTATOES

10 potatoes
1 cup sour cream
½ pound cream cheese
4 tablespoons butter
⅓ cup chopped chives
Paprika, pepper, salt

Boil peeled potatoes until tender. Beat sour cream and cheese together; add hot potatoes and beat until smooth. Add butter, chives, salt and pepper to taste.

Pour into a well-greased 2-quart casserole; dot with butter and sprinkle paprika on top. Bake at 350 degrees for 25 minutes. This can be prepared ahead and refrigerated. Also, may be reheated in the microwave.

Jarrettsville, Md.

BAKED MASHED POTATOES

5 pounds potatoes (9 large)
6-ounces cream cheese
1 cup sour cream
2 teaspoons onion salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons butter

Cook and mash until smooth. Add remaining ingredients and beat until light and fluffy. Cool. Cover and keep in refrigerator to use within 2 weeks. To use, place desired amount in greased casserole dish with butter and bake at 350 degrees for at least 30 minutes. Serves 12.

POTATO FILLING

2 cups mashed potatoes (very moist)
1 tablespoon minced parsley
1 egg, well beaten
2 tablespoons melted butter
1 small onion, minced
1 teaspoon salt
Dash pepper
1 quart stale bread, cubed
½ cup celery, diced

Mix potatoes and eggs. Saute onion and celery in butter; add potatoes and egg. Stir in bread cubes. If the mixture is stiff, add milk. Can be used to stuff poultry or placed in buttered casserole and bake at 375 degrees for about 45 minutes or until browned on top.

POTATO SAVORY LAMB

4 medium baking potatoes
½ cup thinly sliced celery
¼ cup chopped onion
1 pound Pa. ground lean lamb
1 cup catsup
2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce

Pierce potatoes with fork. Arrange in circle on microwavable paper towel. Cook in microwave (high) 11 to 13 minutes until tender, turning once.

Wrap in foil and set aside.

Using 2-quart glass casserole, place celery and onion. Cover with glass lid. Microwave high 1 minute.

Stir in lamb. Cover and microwave high 4 to 5 minutes or until meat is no longer pink, stir once.

Drain off drippings. Stir in catsup and Worcestershire sauce. Microwave high for 2 minutes.

Cook's Question

ANSWER — Jennifer Hall, Delta, requested recipes to can tomato paste, spaghetti sauce, pizza sauce, and fruit butter (low sugar or honey used). Thanks to Cook's Corner fan and Robert Uhler, Boyertown, for sending recipes.

Tomato Medley Sauce

¼ cup olive oil
3 carrots, peeled and shredded
2 green peppers, diced
2 garlic cloves, minced
3 large onions, diced
12 pounds tomatoes, peeled and diced
¼ cup honey
1 tablespoon salt
6 tablespoons oregano, dried
2 teaspoons basil, dried
½ teaspoon pepper
12-ounces tomato paste

Saute all veggies in oil except tomatoes about 15 minutes. Add tomatoes, stir, simmer several hours on low heat (uncovered) until just about desired thickness. Add spices, sugar, and paste. Simmer, uncovered over low heat until desired thickness. To can, heat until very hot, pour into hot jars, leaving ¼ -inch head space. Seal and process in boiling water bath. Process pints 30 minutes.

If you have fresh oregano or basil, use handfuls of the herb but first take it off the stem and chop it finely.

Spaghetti Sauce

6 quarts tomato puree
2 garlic cloves
3 peppers
3 onions
1 pint vegetable oil
1½ cups sugar
½ cup salt
1 tablespoon basil
1 tablespoon oregano

Grind the cloves, peppers, and onions. Combine all ingredients and cook until sauce is desired thickness. Pour into jars and seal. To make tomato puree, drain the water off the cooked tomatoes before straining them.

ANSWER — Barbara Randall, Holcomb, N.Y., requested a recipe for making condensed milk. Thanks to Anna Cressman, Slatington, and others for sending recipes.

Sweetened Condensed Milk

1 cup non-fat dry milk
⅔ cup granulated sugar
⅓ cup boiling water
3 tablespoons butter, melted

Put all ingredients in blender and process until smooth. Let cool. Refrigerate covered. Makes 14 ounces.

Sweetened Condensed Milk

⅓ cup evaporated milk
¾ cup sugar
2 tablespoons butter

Combine ingredients. Cook over medium heat, beating until sugar and butter are completely dissolved.

ANSWER — Janet A. Miller, Easton, wanted a recipe for mincemeat (with meat) and directions for canning it. Thanks to Alice Horning, Mifflinburg, for sending a recipe.

Mincemeat

21 pounds cooked ground beef
32 pounds apples, ground with peelings
4 pounds raisins
6 cups brown sugar
4 cups molasses
9 tablespoons salt
1 cup lemon juice
3 quarts cider
1 quart meat stock
1½ quarts wine
8 teaspoons cinnamon
3 teaspoons cloves
3 teaspoons nutmeg
12 teaspoons allspice

Add juice as desired. Mix everything together and put into quart jars. Process in hot water bath for 2 hours.

Art, Craft Directories

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — The 1992 Art and Craft Show Directory for Lancaster County and surrounding areas is now available. Published by the Market House Craft Center, the directory provides information for 152 art and craft shows in the area. It is intended for people who are interested in exhibiting in the shows as well as for patrons who like to attend them. The booklet includes an index of shows by towns, which facilitates locating a specific show when the date is unknown. Each event is described, with date, title, location, hours, special attributes, the number of exhibitors, the expected attendance, and the admission charge. Also given is information for potential exhibitors such as the fees, the requirements and deadlines for applications and the contact person.

There is a $3 charge for the directory, which covers postage and printing costs. Directories may be ordered by sending a check or money order to: 1992 Show Directory, Market House Craft Center, P.O. Box 552, Lancaster, PA 17603.

Directories may also be picked up at the Market House Craft Center. The Craft Center is located in the lower level of Southern Market Center at the corner of Queen and Vine Streets in downtown Lancaster. Look for the sign over the steps on Vine Street. The Market House Craft Center is a nonprofit organization, and a Chapter of the PA Guild of Craftsmen. Call 295-1500 for current hours and more information.

Proper lime application can increase your dry weather yield

You can't control the weather, but you can increase your dry weather yield by controlling soil fertility with proper lime application. Fall and early winter lime application corrects soil pH, restores vital nutrients, and makes your fertilizer more effective in preparation for spring planting.

Let's Learn About Sheep

A female sheep is called a ewe. A male sheep is called a ram. A baby sheep is called a lamb. Lamb is the name for sheep less than one year old.

Sheep grow fluffy wool all over their bodies. Wool keeps them warm and dry. Sheep must have a haircut once a year. This is called shearing.

Sheep have split hooves which can help them climb rocky hills.

Sheep do not have any top front teeth. The roof of their mouth is hard so they can bite and eat grass.

Sheep are gentle animals and do not bite.

Sheep have tails but their tails are cut off to about three inches when they are still babies. This is called docking and helps keep the sheep clean and healthy. Docking feels like getting a shot...it only hurts for a second.

Sheep make a bleating sound. A baby lamb can identify its mother by her bleat.

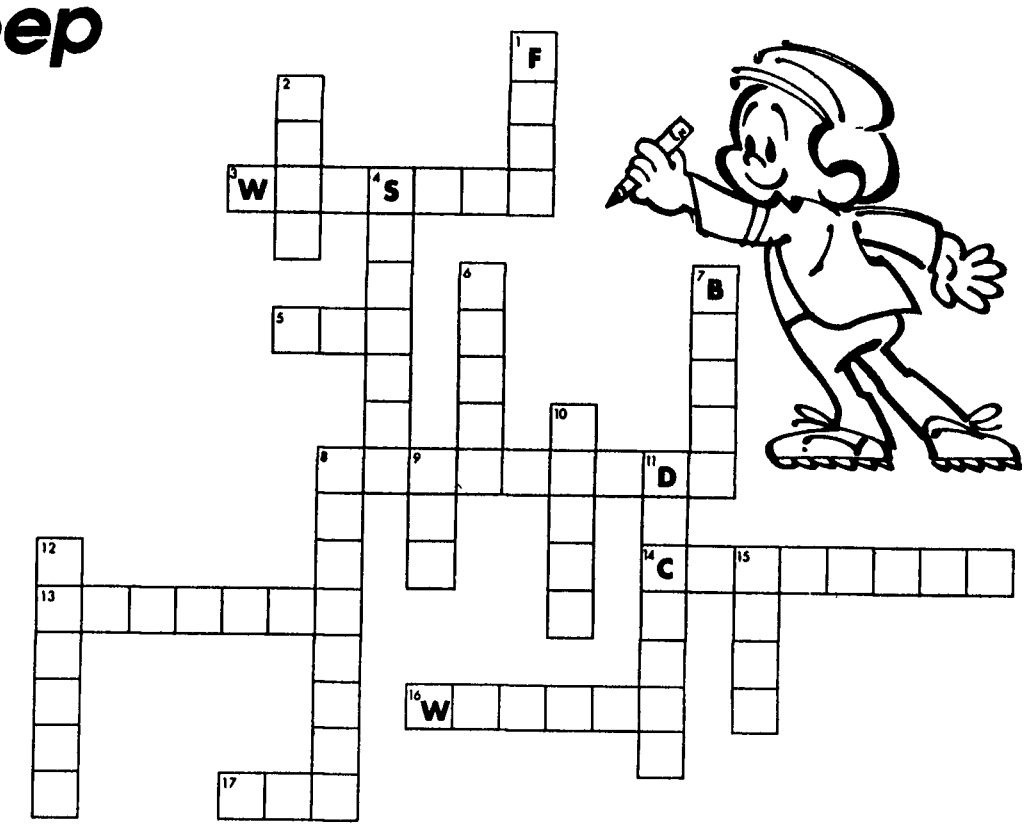
Sheep wear ear tags. Sheep producers put ear tags on their sheep to identify them. Putting an ear tag on feels like getting an ear pierced.

Sheep are ruminants. Ruminant means sheep have three extra parts to their stomach. Their special stomach allows them to digest plants and grasses that humans and most other animals cannot.

Sheep like to graze. Graze means the sheep eat growing grasses. Sheep graze where many crops cannot grow and eat plants that many other animals will not. Grazing sheep are good for wildlife like deer and elk. Grazing sheep help other plants grow that deer and elk like to eat.

Sheep give us food and fiber. The food is called lamb and the fiber is called lamb and the fiber is called wool. Wool fiber is used to make clothes.

There are 35 different breeds of sheep in America. The most popular breeds are:



Welcome Baby Lambs

Most lambs are born in the spring. Mother ewes usually give birth to one, two or three lambs. Some mother ewes can have as many as five lambs at once! Lambs can stand soon after they are born. The mother ewe cleans them off. Lambs drink their mother's milk and grow strong. Soon, lambs will eat grasses and grain like their mother. Lambs will be well grown at 6 months old and will weigh between 110 and 120 pounds! Lambs stay with their mother until they are five months old.

Sheep Give Us Wool

Wool is the natural fiber grown from sheep. Different breeds of sheep grow different kinds of wool. Sheep can grow fine wool, medium wool or coarse wool.

SHEARING: Spring is usually shearing time for sheep. Sheep have their wool removed in one piece called a fleece.

SCOURED: The fleece is washed in big tubs to remove dirt, grease and grass.

CARDING: The clean dry wool is then carded. Carding means to comb the wool to straighten the fibers.

SPINNING: The wool is spun into yarn. Coarser wool is spun into woolen yarn. Finer wool is spun into worsted yarn.

KNITTING/WEAVING: The yarn is knit or woven into fabric.

WOOLEN: Woolen yarn is usually used in carpets or thick sweaters.

Sheep Give Us Lamb

Lamb is the meat that comes from full-grown sheep less than one year old. Lamb is sold in the meat counter at the grocery store. Lamb is delicious and easy to prepare.

Lamb is delicious and nutritious. Lamb contains many important vitamins and minerals.

Lamb is a good source of iron and the B-vitamins. Iron and the B-vitamins give people energy.

Lamb is a good source of zinc. Zinc helps make hair healthy and shiny.

Shepherd's Lamb Sandwiches
(8 servings)

8 pita breads
mayonnaise or plain yogurt
1 pound sliced, cooked leg of American lamb
2 red Delicious apples, sliced and dipped in lemon juice
1 jar (12 ounces) sweet pickles, sliced
1½ cups shredded lettuce
¾ pound Swiss cheese, shredded

Cut pita breads in half. Spread inside of pita with mayonnaise or plain yogurt. Stuff pockets with lamb, apples, pickles, lettuce and cheese. Enjoy!

A Day In The Life Of A Shepherd

The shepherd awakens before dawn to tend to his sheep. He and his working dog move the sheep off the bedding ground. Bedding ground is where the sheep have slept for the night.

The shepherd and his dog herd the sheep to green grass. Here the sheep will eat and drink. Sheep drink water from the morning dew on the grass, a nearby stream or water tank.

Now it is time for the shepherd and his dog to eat their breakfast. The shepherd's breakfast may be beans, bread and coffee. Once a week, the camp tender brings groceries to the shepherd. The camp tender is the person who checks on the shepherd to make sure he is safe.

After breakfast, the shepherd and his dog spend the day watching the sheep and herding them on fresh grass. The sheep eat grass and lick the salt licks the shepherds have set out for them. Salt licks are big blocks of salt. Salt provides sheep with important minerals necessary for a healthy diet.

In the evening before bed, the shepherd and his dog herd the sheep to water for a cool drink. The sheep are then herded to a new bedding ground for a good night's sleep.

Shepherds And Their Dogs

Sheep ranches with more than 1,000 sheep often hire shepherds.

Shepherds are men or women who care for the sheep on the range.

Shepherds feed and protect the sheep. If a sheep gets sick, the shepherd helps it get well.

Shepherds live alone in a sheep wagon or a tent.

Shepherds are nomadic. Nomadic means they move from place to place.

Shepherds move their sheep wagon or tent to find fresh grass for the sheep to eat.

There are two kinds of sheep dogs; working dogs and guarding dogs.

Working dogs are very intelligent and work with the shepherd to herd the sheep. They will bark and run around the sheep to make them move. Most young working dogs first learn how to herd sheep by watching their mothers. A dog trainer will also help them learn. Shepherds may have two to three working dogs for every 1,000 sheep.

Common working dogs are Border Collies and Australian Shepherds.

Guarding dogs are used to protect the sheep from wild animals such as coyotes, bears and cougars.

Guarding dogs are not treated like regular dogs. People do not play with guarding dogs. Guarding dogs prefer to be with sheep and are very protective of them. Guarding dogs stay with the sheep at night and bark to scare wild animals away.

Common guarding dogs are Komondor, Great Pyranees and Akbash.

This information is taken from the Sheep Reporter, a new publication by the American Sheep Industry geared to grades 3 to 6. It was sent to us by the Natural Colored Wool Growers Association (NCWGA) Friends in Pennsylvania who said the publication comes out of the American Sheep Industry check-off monies.

"I preserve old buildings by painting them on canvas," Joanne said. She paints in pastels, water colors, and does many pencil sketches. She also works with acrylics and oils.

Artist Preserves Old Buildings By Painting On Canvas

LINDA WILLIAMS
Bedford Co. Correspondent

EVERETT (Bedford Co.) — When urbanization forced Gerald and Joanne Leeds out of Atlantic City, they found what they were looking for in the peaceful countryside of Bedford County. "We owned a few acres on the outskirts of Atlantic City," Joanne explains. "And, we've always had a love for farming. We raised a few beef cattle, some turkeys, chickens, that kind of thing."

"The suburban area grew up around us and we found ourselves being forced out of farming, even on a small scale. The neighbors complained, we decided to move.

Joanne was a commercial artist and Gerald was in the printing business. Finding a well-kept farm near Everett, the couple is now able to pursue all of their interests.

They raise Morgan horses, sweet potatoes, and hay. Gerald has continued his printing business, still printing for the casinos in Atlantic City and expanding to include some local business.

Joanne finds that her love of art is greater than ever. "And, now I have the time and energy to paint what I've always wanted to paint," she says satisfactorily.

Her slogan is, "I preserve old buildings by painting them on canvas."

The Leeds spend many afternoons combing the countryside looking for old barns or outbuildings for Joanne to capture on canvas.

Joanne Leeds finds that since moving to Bedford County her love for art is stronger than ever. She spends many afternoons combing the countryside looking for old barns or outbuildings to capture on canvas.

"Every barn has a different personality, each has character. I love them," she said.

Joanne finds it particularly intriguing that there are so many different styles of architecture found in the barns and farm5 of Bedford and the surrounding counties.

"I see the New England influence and I see sleeping porches and summer kitchens like those found on southern plantations," she says.

"About a mile south of Bedford I found a farm with what even looks like a slave house, perhaps it wasn't but it looks like one. I wonder how it all happened."

There are barns with cubicles and cornices. Joanne likes the weathered barns and also those which have been primped and painted.

Joanne paints in pastels, water colors, and does a great many pencil sketches. "I work some in acrylics and oils. but not as much as the other methods," she says.

As a member of the Bedford County Arts Council. Joanne's art work was on display at an invitational show held at the Arts Council headquarters in December. She is also a member of the Fulton County Art Club.

She has displayed paintings at Atlantic City, Hagerstown, McConnellsburg and Warfordsburg. She also does some commission painting or buildings or horses.

Her best sales are through an art gallery located in Bedford.

A cabinet full of blue ribbons testifies to her expertise both in art and with her Morgan horses, "My first love," she admits.

Joanne and Gerald has never regretted moving to the country. "I get so inspired every time I look out my window or stand on my porch and look at this scenery." she says.

Most of her art work is done in one of the farm buildings adjacent to the house. There, Gerald runs the printing presses while Joanne does her art work.

They are often joined by their huge adopted family of cats. "Four of them came along from Atlantic City," Joanne says. "The rest either came with the farm or showed up and joined the crowd." They reside in a 'cat motel,' built by Gerald and located on the front porch of the farm house.

Visitors quickly get the feeling that the Leeds have found the best of all worlds in their rural home.

Joanne finds it intriguing that there are so many different styles of architecture found in the barns and farms of Bedford and the surrounding counties.

Model 630: An economical small baler with big baler features

The Model 630 roll/belt round baler offers standard features usually found only on larger balers. The electric wrap system includes a standard full-bale alarm that signals when the bale reaches optimum size so wrapping can begin. There's a standard four-ball storage box which means fewer stops. Continuous run PTO is another standard feature. It saves you time by ejecting bales without disengaging the PTO. The standard spring-loaded bale ejector eliminates the need to back up. Compare the "630" to others in its class.

Forget Dieting, Budget Fat

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

LEESPORT (Berks Co.) — Dieting isn't what it used to be: bland meals, tuna five times weekly, and no potatoes.

Instead, Linda Eck, R.D. said, "There are no good or bad foods. All can be consumed in moderation."

Eck takes the confusion out of dieting terms such as saturated, unsaturated, polyunsaturated fats, cholesterol, lipoprotein and other terms that often confuse consumers.

"Counting fat instead of calories is much more effective to having a healthy heart and to losing weight," she said.

While the concept of counting fat grams may be a bit puzzling at first, Eck has a few tips to take the confusion out of it. In keeping with current studies, Eck said, "You should develop a daily fat budget that's 30 percent of your daily calories."

If you are not a mathematician, do not grow alarmed. Eck said, "The easiest way to figure out how many fat grams you can eat is to take one-half of your ideal weight. If you weigh 150 pounds, that means you can include 75 grams of fat in your daily diet. If you weigh 120 pounds, you can have 60 grams of fat daily."

A certain amount of cholesterol must be present in our bodies to maintain our health, but when we eat too many foods rich in cholesterol and saturated fats, surplus cholesterol enters the bloodstream and contributes to the buildup of atherosclerosis. That means cholesterol deposits become embedded in the lining of the artery walls, which narrow and scar the channel through which the blood flows. Eventually an artery may close off completely from the deposits growing together or from a blood clot that plugs up the narrowed passageway.

But fat may be in foods you least suspect. Some brands of bran cereal have 2 grams of fat in a serving. Eck said, "It is necessary to become a label reader so that you may make trade-offs in foods that balance low and high fat foods."

To be a wise consumer, you should have a basic knowledge of labels and what they mean. Otherwise, companies play on people's ignorance to sell their products. One example of this is peanut butter that is advertized as cholesterol free.

"Peanut butter has fat, but never cholesterol," Eck said, "because peanut butter is made from a plant. Plants never have cholesterol. Only animal products have cholesterol. On the other hand, plant products may have fat. In the case of peanut butter, two tablespoons have about 17 grams of fat."

Eck also frowns on the advertising of low-cholesterol eggs. "Basically all eggs have the same amount of cholesterol because chickens are fed differently today. If you buy those advertised as low cholesterol, you may be paying almost double prices," she cautioned.

The American Heart Association allows four eggs weekly for those on a low-cholesterol, low-fat diet.

To be an effective label reader, you need to understand the three different kinds of fat.

Saturated fat

Saturated fats increase cholesterol levels in the blood and should be restricted in the diet. These fats harden at room temperature and are found in most animal products and some hydrogenated vegetable products. This includes butter, beef tallow, lard, poultry fat, coconut oil, palm oil, and palm kernel oil. Saturated fats are also found in cream, whole milk, non-dairy milk and cream substitutes and in cheeses made from cream and whole milk.

Berks County Extension home economist Fay Strickler, center, and Linda Eck, R.D., right, tell workshop participants how to reduce fat in their diets.

Polyunsaturated Fats:

Polyunsaturated fats are usually liquid oils of vegetable origin such as corn, cottonseed, safflower, sesame seed, soybean, and sunflower seed. They tend to lower the level of cholesterol in the blood by helping the body to eliminate excess, newly-formed cholesterol.

Monounsaturated Fats:

Monounsaturated fats are liquid at room temperature and are helpful in lowering total cholesterol. This includes olive, peanut, and canola oils.

"Partially hydrogenated margarine is no better than butter," Eck said. Hydrogenation changes liquid fats to solid fats and should be avoided or used in moderation.

"There is nothing wrong with eating potatoes and bread, it's what you put on them that should be watched," Eck said. "A plain boiled potato has only 59 calories. The same potato turned into hash browns has 178 calories, and if it is French fried, it has 228."

While some patrons request broiled seafood with the opinion that it is lower in cholesterol, most restaurants broil it in butter, Eck said, and the entree will come swimming in it unless you request that it be broiled without butter.

Rather than eliminate certain foods from your diet, the best way is to modify recipes to reduce the fat.

Instead of frying foods, bake, broil, stir-fry, steam, simmer, or saute in broth or juice or use non-stick pans or non-stick vegetable sprays.

Choose nonfat and skim milk products; non-fat yogurts with 1 gram fat or less per 8 ounces.

Cut the fat in sour cream by making mock sour cream to use on dips, toppings, and other recipes that don't require heating the sour cream. Great on baked potatoes, tortillas, and cooked vegetables.

Mock Sour Cream
1 cup low-fat cottage cheese
2 tablespoons skim milk
1 tablespoon lemon juice

Other sour cream substitutes are low-fat or non-fat plain yogurt.

Natural Egg Substitutes

Use 2 egg whites for 1 whole egg or 3 egg whites for 2 whole eggs. OR use 2 egg whites and 1 teaspoon vegetable oil to replace one egg in baking. OR 3 egg whites, ¼ cup non-fat milk, 1 tablespoon non-fat dry milk powder, and 1 teaspoon vegetable oil. Beat egg whites lightly with fork. Add remaining ingredients and beat lightly with fork. Yields 6 tablespoons equal to 2 whole eggs.

Baking Chocolate Substitute
3 tablespoons cocoa powder
1 tablespoon polyunsaturated oil

Use in place of 1-ounce baking chocolate.

Butter Substitute
(This recipe has cholesterol but reduced saturated fat)
1 cup safflower, soy or corn oil
1 cup butter
2 tablespoons water
2 tablespoons dried

Instead of cooking vegetables with sauce or butter, season them with herbs or lemon juice. Or, try a few drops of sesame oil or grated cheese.

In place of French fries, use strips of raw potatoes sprinkled with oil or coated with cooking spray. Bake at 450 degrees for 30 minutes.

Make homemade croutons by spreading sliced bread thinly with margarine. Sprinkle with garlic powder, cut in cubes, and toast.

Cheese is an excellent source of riboflavin, phosphorus, calcium, and protein. Unfortunately, cheese is the third major source of saturated fat in the American diet. Cheese manufacturers have begun to market low-fat cheeses because of this demand. When reading a label, look for a low-fat cheese that contains 5 grams fat or less per ounce. The first ingredient listed should be skim milk or water. Some cheese labeled imitation is high in fat and calories but low in cholesterol. Imitation cheese is made from vegetable oils rather than fat from milk which contains cholesterol. A low-fat cheese would be a better choice.

One word of caution, low-fat cheeses are often higher in sodium. This is due to the added sodium used to prevent ingredients from separating.

Low-fat cheeses include cottage cheese (dry curd or 1% to 2% milk fat) and skim milk ricotta. Those with 2 to 4 grams fat include 4% cottage cheese, Farmer's, Friendship, Alpine Lace, Monterey Jack, mozzarella.

Tips For Fat Cutting

- Whatever you choose, eat in moderation.
- Keep fats and oils to a minimum.
- Use non-stick cookware and non-stick sprays in place of fats.
- Instead of frying; broil, bake, steam or grill.
- In baking, use two egg whites instead of a whole egg.
- Skim fats from soups, broths, and casseroles.
- Not every meal must balance out perfectly, but fat should equal no more than 30 percent of your total caloric intake over a period of a few days.

While limiting fat intake is recommended for adults, it is not recommended for children, especially those under the age of two who need whole milk and the calories that come with fat.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

We've been having quite a few guests in our home recently. So, I've been cooking and baking a lot. It is flattering to be asked for a recipe after a meal but it does take time to copy it.

Friends from our church were here Sunday night and my sisters and their husbands were here on a Saturday night. So I roasted a turkey and another day a chicken. Also baked some apple-raisin pies.

The other week our daughter, Nancy, and her family from Seattle stayed here. In the spring they will be moving to New Jersey as her husband was promoted by his insurance company. They have lived in the West for some 20 years. Their boys are 11 years old and seven months old.

It was a different few days as we put the crib in the big bedroom. And, we brought the highchair, that all of our six children used, from the basement. We never did get rid of the playpen or any of the baby furniture. It was just stored on the attic waiting for grandchildren. There are now 10 of them but they do not get to use the things very much. However, it is very nice to have the baby furniture when it is needed.

The four-bedroom house in New Jersey that they bought will be within walking distance of David's school. And, both parents will be minutes from their work. They have an in-ground swimming pool and a very large wooded lawn. They'll keep their house on Camano Island in Washington and hope to use it for vacation while their home will be sold.

Now all of our children will be on the east coast from Georgia to Virginia to New Jersey to Pennsylvania. Although, even when they were more scattered they did manage to visit once or twice a year. Maybe someday we'll go to visit them.

Stress, Rewards In Caring For Elderly

YORK, (York Co.) — There are many satisfactions but also a lot of stresses and strains in caring for an elderly family member. This topic will be discussed at the next Caregivers Support Group that is scheduled for March 10, 7:00 p.m. at Penn State Cooperative Extension, 112 Pleasant Acres Road, York in meeting room #3 of the County Departments Building. Call the Extension Office at (717) 757-9657.

Farm Women Societies

Lancaster Society 8

Lancaster Society of Farm Women No. 8 met on February 12 at the home of Arlene Witman and Mary Sarver in Mount Joy. After a business meeting the Society held a 1-pound auction.

The March 11th meeting will be held at the home of Mary Anne Spangler in Marietta.

Lancaster Society 18

Lancaster Society #18 met at the home of Violet Swarr, Landisville, on Feb. 16. Pres. Ruth Rohrer conducted the meeting.

Mrs. Swarr presented the program, "Women of Great Strength."

Guests were Mrs. Swarr's daughter, Rose Ann Wade, and granddaughter, Heidi Murthy.

The next meeting will be hosted by Igerna Wanner at First Presbyterian Church, Strasburg. Chairperson Lettie Nissley reported a bus trip May 12 to Wintheur, Delaware.

Berks Society 6

Seven members of the Society of Farm Women, Group #6, traveled to the M.O.M. Outlet to have a lunch meeting. A poem, "When Winter Comes," was read by Janet Schlegel.

The group will participate at the Hauseman's Garage Open House, April 24, 25, and 26, by serving refreshments. Members were reminded that the Berks Heim bingo will be held April 9 in the main building at 7 p.m. Plans to attend the Spring Rally, May 27, were discussed.

All members were asked to bring two food items, for the Greater Berks Food Bank, to the March 17 meeting in the home of Linda Youse, RD #2, Oley. Members are to wear something green to the meeting.

York Society 26

York County Farm Women 26 met on February 11 at I-83 Restaurant at Strinestown with 13 members present and one guest.

The business meeting was conducted by president, Ruth Traver.

After the business meeting, the group went to York for a tour of York County Control.

The March meeting will be held at the home of Clara Wilt.

Berks Society 11

Berks County Farm Women Group 11 met at the home of Jean Erb. Members reversed the order of the meeting and had refreshments first so that Jean's young daughter, Sonja, could serve us before her bedtime.

The roll call was "Recall a favorite winter memory." Most of them involved a lot of snow. Members were to wear something white or pay a fine. Members had a Constitution and by-law quiz. Everyone did quite well, but Wendy Lingle had a perfect score.

Coming events were discussed: a fashion show in March, bingo at the Heim in April, and collecting items for Berks Co. Food Bank. A silent auction was held with one wrapped gift which Wendy bought -- a pack of Valentine napkins.

York Society 7

York County Farm Women #7 met in the home of Nancy Emswiler, with Helen Bentz serving as co-hostess. Each member answered roll call with readings of exchanged valentines.

Irene Rentzel, president, read the duties and by laws to each officer.

Nancy Emswiler and Carrie Hedrick gave reports of the state convention.

Monetary donations will be given to the Red Cross Fire Disaster Fund and monies and food will be given to the Northeastern Food Pantry in the area.

A sub sale is planned to be held on March 16th and 17th.

February bingo cards made by Louise Heindle were both educational and fun. A few songs from the state convention were shared with the group.

York Society 11

Society #11 York met at the home of Sarah Snyder. All members not wearing red for Valentine's Day were fined 25¢.

Roll call response was "A Love Story I Enjoy" and varied responses were the Bible story on Naomi & Ruth. Several members enjoyed more than 50 years of married life, Blondie and Dagwood of comic strip fame and the Love of God for us made an interesting response.

David Deville from the American Heart Association gave an interesting talk on how we can all take care of our hearts, through exercise, diet, and a lot of common sense.

Two members, Melba Dise and Naomi Bupp received ribbons for participating in the State Project "Spreading Happiness." Guess Box was won by Hester Keeney.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Cora Miller with Ada Strickler as hostess. The Ways and Means Committee asked us to bring 10¢ a pair for every pair of shoes in our closet that we wear.

Our guest was a new neighbor, Velma Pfahler. Refreshments were served to 15 people.

Today's Beef Contains Less Fat

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Today's beef is leaner... so much so that the beef section of U.S. Department of Agriculture's Handbook 8 has been revised twice in recent years to account for the leaner nutritional composition of beef.

Much of this reduction in fat has come from closer trimming by retailers and packers. Whereas one-half to an inch of fat was left around a retail cut of steak 10 years ago, today we are likely to see both raw and cooked retail cuts with ¼ -inch to zero external fat.

Changes in production practices also have contributed to increased leanness. Today's animals are being marketed before they can become overly fat. This practice helps reduce the amount of "intramuscular" fat, or fat within the muscle that can't be trimmed away. Livestock producers also are looking at the genetics of their herds. The goal is to produce offspring with a minimum amount of fat and a maximum amount of taste appeal.

Consumers, too, have contributed to beef's leaner image. A recent national study showed that fat on retail meat cuts is trimmed not only at the grocery store, but also at home. Eight-one percent of consumers trimmed some fat from meat cuts and 65 percent trimmed nearly all of the fat. Trimming before cooking is recommended as a way of reducing the fat content of meat products.

Dr. Gary Smith of Colorado State University's animal sciences department says that when single muscle cuts such as loin and round cuts are cooked with external fat still attached, some of the fat liquifies and migrates into the lean. This can result in an increase of as much as 20 percent in the amount of fat in the separable lean of the cut compared to the same cut cooked without external fat.

Where do you find the leanest piece of beef? Beyond trim, consider cut and grade. Retail beef comes graded as Prime, Choice, or Select. Since grading is specifically determined by the fat content of the entire carcass from which the cut is taken, there is a direct relationship between the grade and amount of fat in the cooked piece. Prime grades, which produce the juiciest and tenderest steaks, have the highest fat content. Prime grades are generally available only in restaurants. Choice grades are intermediate in fat content and Select grades are lowest in marbled and seam fat. Renamed "Select" from "Good" in 1987, consumer interest in Select beef is growing. In the latest government reporting period, Select accounted for 16% of all beef that was graded.

The "cut" of meat specifies where on the animal's body it comes from. The leanest cuts come from single, whole muscles, which have no seam fat. Muscles used to support the body have less connective tissue — and therefore less fat — than muscles involved in locomotion. For example, a beef tenderloin (which anatomically serves only to rotate the hip) is lean and tender but less flavorful than a chuck steak (which comes from muscles working the shoulder and is flavorful but fatty and tough). Among the beef cuts, those with "loin" or "round" in their name, such as sirloin, tenderloin, top loin, eye of round, top round, and round tip, have the least fat. The same rule applies to pork and lamb.

GEHL®

Pack It In!

Pack more hay into each bale with Gehl variable chamber round balers.

- Total Density Control (TDC®) - Lets you custom-build bales according to changing crop and moisture conditions for maximum nutrient value.
- Two models - Makes bales 3 feet, 9 inches wide and up to 5 feet in diameter, or 5 feet wide and up to 6 feet in diameter.
- Quick-wrap option - Speeds your baling operation and helps preserve hay quality.
- Constant velocity driveline - For smooth operation.
- Electric dual twine wrap - With manual or auto control.
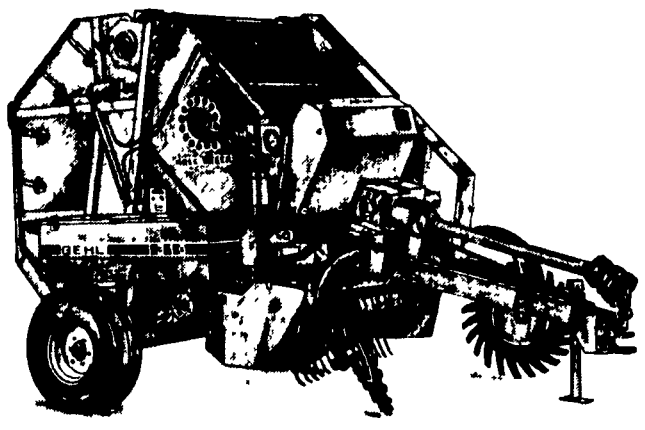
- Low horsepower requirement - Lets you bale with a tractor as small as 40 horsepower



YOU'RE ON A ROLL...
...WITH A GEHL ROLL BALER®

Gehl fixed-chamber Roll Balers are easy to operate. They handle a variety of crops and conditions, to keep your haymaking operation rolling along

- Steel rolls around the outside of the bale chamber form bales with a medium density core and hard outer shell to shed moisture.
- Two sizes make 4 1/3-foot or 6-foot diameter bales.
- Electric dual twine wrap - with manual or auto control.
- Constant velocity driveline reduces noise and vibrations in tight turns
- Crowder wheels extend the pickup width to bring in the big windrows (optional).
- Handles all crops including corn stalks, legumes, grasses, straw, and damp hay.

COMMON SENSE MOWER CONDITIONERS

Gehl mower conditioners are "common sense" machines because they're packed with sensible features. Gehl pull-type sicklebar mower conditioners are built to give you fast cutting and conditioning for quick crop dry-down.

- Full-width intermeshing conditioning rolls with intermittent ribs deliver thorough, uniform conditioning.
- Simple sickle drive with pivot-arm design provides more cutting force.
- Fewer moving parts than competitive models for worry-free performance.
- Three-point flotation support protects the cutterbar from rocks and uneven terrain.

The Saving Place

THE BIG SWEEP! NEW

Revolutionary Case IH MAXXI-WIDTH™ sweep penetrates faster ... and wears longer!

- New constant width design helps maintain original cutting width during the life of the sweep — gives you consistent overlap.
- "Double-strength" wraparound stem withstands loads over 2500 lbs.
- Heavy-duty, reinforced wear tip produces better penetration... and protection.
- "Austempered" heat treatment process provides up to 19.2% more wear.
- Lower angle pitch means less tip wear, less draft and more residue — perfect for today's conservation tilling.
- Two stem widths available: 1 1/2" for Case IH and IH applications; and 1 3/4" for non-Case IH.

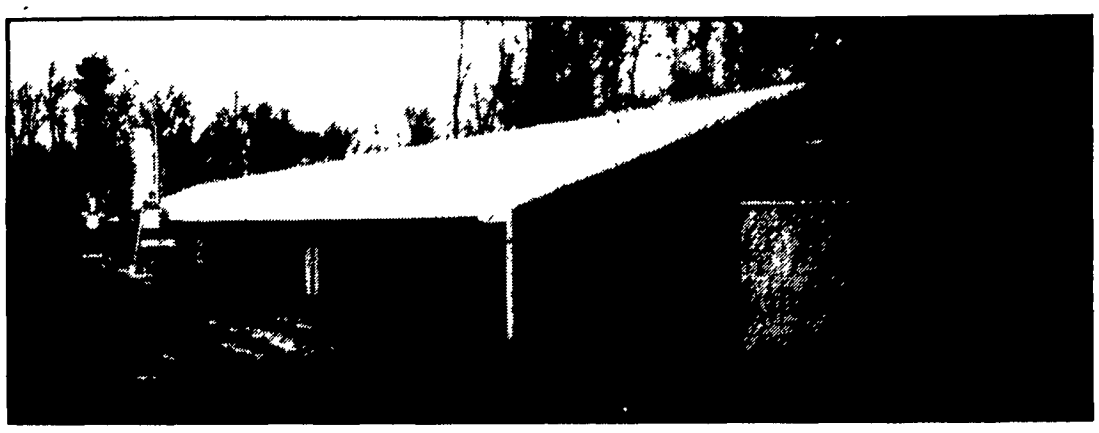
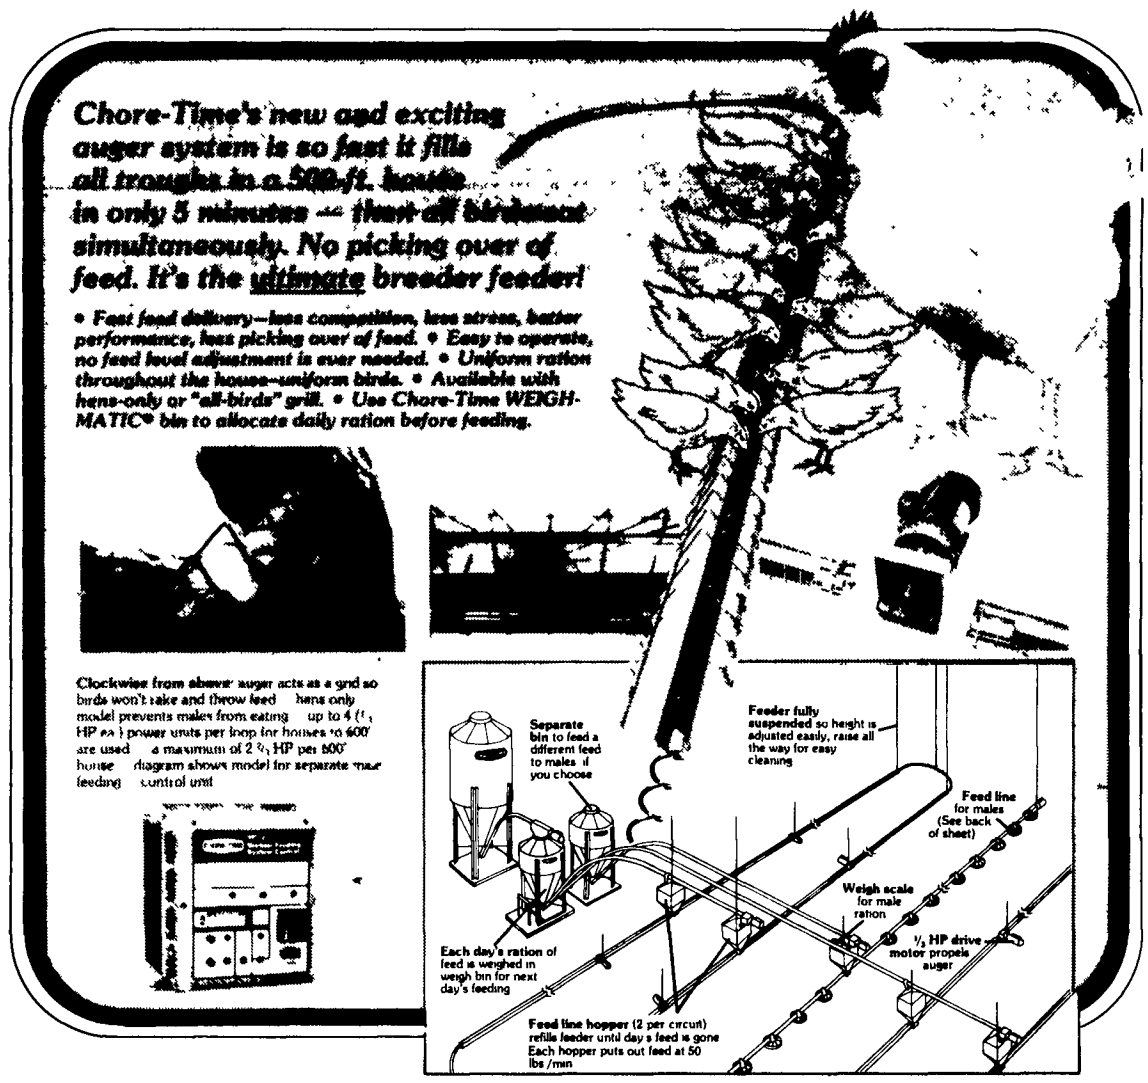
On Their New 7,500 Capacity Breeder House FEATURING CHORE-TIME®'s Ultraflo® Breeder Feeder



NEW 32'x328' CURTAIN SIDED BREEDER HOUSE
BY BUFFALO VALLEY CONSTRUCTION

CHORE-TIME® ULTRAFLO®

THE FEEDER THAT HAS TAKEN OVER THE CAGED LAYER INDUSTRY



Chore-Time's new and exciting auger system is so fast it fills all troughs in a 500-ft. house in only 5 minutes — that all birds eat simultaneously. No picking over of feed. It's the ultimate breeder feeder!
• Fast feed delivery—less competition, less stress, better performance, less picking over of feed. • Easy to operate, no feed level adjustment is ever needed. • Uniform ration throughout the house—uniform birds. • Available with hens-only or "all-birds" grill. • Use Chore-Time WEIGH-MATIC® bin to allocate daily ration before feeding.
Clockwise from above: auger acts as a grid so birds won't rake and throw feed; hens only model prevents males from eating; up to 4 (½ HP ea.) power units per loop for houses to 600' are used; a maximum of 2 ½ HP per 500' house; diagram shows model for separate male feeding; control unit
Separate bin to feed a different feed to males if you choose
Feeder fully suspended so height is adjusted easily, raise all the way for easy cleaning
Feed line for males (See back of sheet)
Weigh scale for male ration
½ HP drive motor propels auger
Each day's ration of feed is weighed in weigh bin for next day's feeding
Feed line hopper (2 per circuit) refills feeder until day's feed is gone. Each hopper puts out feed at 50 lbs./min

USING PRODUCTION STANDARDS FOR ADDED PROFIT

John H. Schwartz, Ph.D.
Lancaster County
Extension Director

Every strain of poultry has a set of production standards established for it. These standards express the potential the geneticist has bred into the bird. Under proper management, birds should achieve many of these production standards.

Factors keeping poultry from achieving their potential include feed and water restriction, air quality, water quality, lighting, wet litter, improper house temperature and humidity, and disease.

Since production conditions are constantly changing, the poultry producer must be constantly monitoring his birds and be making modifications to the environment.

By collecting and analyzing data, you will be able to determine if you have a situation that needs corrected. Important data to analyze daily includes feed and water consumption, daily mortality, and house temperature. Weekly data includes body weight, egg production, egg size, and percent undergrades and cracks.

At the end of the flock, you need to analyze your cost figures and compare them against other poultry producers having birds in at the same time as you did. By looking at these figures and comparing them against the standard, you know where you are doing an excellent job and the areas you need to improve.

There are many factors that affect flock performance. Increased feed consumption could be a result of feed wastage from broken feeders, rodents, cull birds, cold house temperatures, and high mortality, especially in market age birds. Poor performance is also caused by high ammonia, water restriction (not enough nipples or waterers, clogged water lines, improper water pressure, or no water), and not moving enough air.

High incidence of undergrade and cracked eggs could be the result of poor dead bird removal before gathering, not gathering eggs frequently, gathering too many rows at one time, and improperly adjusted equipment.

If you are not meeting the performance standards for your strain of poultry, sit down and talk with your service person. Do a complete assessment of your operation. Items to look at include fan capacity, condition of feeders and waterers, maintenance schedules, and daily chores.

Consider developing a quality control program to monitor your performance. Set standards and when your quality control program falls outside these standards, find out immediately what is the cause and take corrective steps. This requires recording water consumption and house temperature, candling eggs, handling birds, weighing birds and eggs and calculating ratios.

Today's bird is changing to meet the changes in consumer preferences. Yield, whither in the form of meat per bird or egg weight per dozen eggs, is becoming more important as we produce for the further processing products. As a result, the poultry producer must adapt new management practices.

By staying on top of your operation with a good quality control program, you should obtain most of the performance standards and be one of the top producers. Take advantage of the expertise available to you, read the popular poultry press, and attend poultry educational meetings.

The more knowledgeable you are, the better producer you should be. So start today to measure your accomplishments against the performance standards for your strain of poultry.

Forage Contest Provides Winner

HALL, N.Y. — Seedway, Inc. has announced the winner of the firm's Double SS Forage Quality Contest completed in December 1991.

Mike Wimmer of Canastota, N.Y. grew the winning Double SS, forage sorghum/soybean mixture during the 1991 growing season. DHIA supervisor Stephen Winkler of Eaton, N.Y. sampled the double SS which was analyzed at the Northeast DHIA Forage Testing Laboratory at Ithaca, N.Y.

Wet chemistry analysis revealed the superior forage quality of Wimmer's entry grown during the 1991 growing season.

Protein content, fiber, TDN, and energy factors were considered in the evaluation that produced Wimmer's entry as the eventual winner. He will receive the $100 grand prize. All contestants who sent entries will receive $5 as a token of appreciation from the Company for their participation.

Wimmer's winning entry tested 16.8% protein, 39.7 ADF, 61.0% TDN, and .49 NEL.

Seedway, Inc. has compiled the forage quality data accumulated from all contest entries grown in 1991 in a database, as well as a separate database accumulated during 1990. Summary forage quality statistics for 1990 and 1991 can be obtained by contacting the company at (800) 836-3710 or by writing Seedway, Inc., P.O. Box 250, Hall, NY 14463.

RIGIDPLY RAFTERS INC

MANUFACTURERS of LAMINATED RAFTERS and WOOD ROOF TRUSSES

701 E. Linden St., RICHLAND, PA 17087

MEMBER NFBA NATIONAL FRAME BUILDERS ASSOCIATION INC

Rigidply Rafters laminted beams offer many advantages when building Homes, Schools, Churches and Commercial, Recreational and Agricultural structures. Our beams are available in Industrial, Architectural and Premium Appearance Grades. The rich warm feeling they create enhances any structure.

Laminated beams are superior in all strength characteristics to solid sawn lumber; they resist checking and twisting because of the use of multiple plies of kiln dried lumber, bonded together with phenolrescorcinal glue.

Rigidply Rafters Inc., has been manufacturing glue laminated products since its initial start up in 1954. We are confident that with our efficient manufacturing plant, team of quality control experts, engineering and sales personnel, we can ensure you a dimensionally stable and dependable product.

Since quality is our number one concern, the glue joints are routinely tested in the Rigidply Quality Laboratory for strength and durability.

To better serve you, we offer our beams in a variety of lumber species: Southern Yellow Pine (CCA treated and untreated), Douglas Fir, Poplar and Cedar.

In the final phase of the manufacturing process the beams can be cut, drilled, stained and sealed to your specification. A protective wrapping can be applied to maintain the beauty and quality of the beams during delivery and installation.

FARM MANAGEMENT

PLANNING FOR PROFIT!

Duane L. Stevenson, Jr.
Multicounty Farm
Management Agent

One of the greatest risks facing farmers today is marketing his crop.

Planning and establishing what the future commodity price will be is key in projecting a feasible budget for the coming year. Farmers should be finalizing crop and livestock plans for the year and should entail realistic planning along with feasibility projections to insure a net return.

Realistic planning cannot occur until you know what you will receive for your product. Now is the time to start evaluating your marketing plan if you have not done so already and reduce some risk in your farming operation by establishing a future price for your product(s).

The objectives of marketing will vary with the various farmers. Grain producers will view the market differently than livestock producers. The goal to maximize profits is common to all farmers.

The first step toward maximizing your profit is to know precisely what it costs to produce your commodity. This is not an estimate or even an educated guess. The cost of production is what it cost you to produce that commodity.

This includes the cash variable costs, the portion of fixed costs allocated to the product, the cost of any unpaid labor (your own and that of your family), and a return for the capital that you have invested.

These costs will vary and must be monitored routinely. Once you get a handle on what your actual cost is, you can decide how much profit you need on each commodity.

The sum of your costs and profit will be the selling price that is necessary. There are a variety of marketing tools which can be used to the advantage of each individual farmer's needs. Among the tools available are forward contracting, futures contracts, hedging, and options contracts.

I will explain a little about each to give you some ideas on how you may be able to use them in your own farm business situation. There are variations of each of the tools I will mention, but I would like to start you thinking of what you can do now to assure a profit this harvest season.

Forward Contracting

Forward contracting is one of the easiest and simplest marketing tools to understand. A contract is drawn for an agreed-upon price. This contract protects the farmer from lower prices at harvest.

The ultimate result you are striving for is to negotiate a contract that will cover all costs and insure a reasonable profit — this will eliminate price concerns at harvest.

The reduced risk in downward price movement carries the cost of forgoing any upward price movement. If you cover your cost and profit in your contract price, this should not be an area of great concern.

One disadvantage could be if a crop failure occurs. In this case, you would be responsible for delivering the agreed-upon quantity. If crop failures are common for a particular year and/or area prices are higher than the contract price, this results in a loss to the farmer. Keep in mind that forward contracting works well in purchasing as well as selling.

Futures Contracting

Futures contracts have been described by some farmers as a form of gambling. Waiting until harvest to find out what the price is, in my opinion, is just as much if not more a gamble than trading in the futures market.

The concept is the same as in forward contracting. Know your costs and lock in a price that will insure a profit. The peace of mind in knowing that a profit exists is worth the loss of a possible price increase at harvest.

The difference between forward contracting and futures contracts is in the dealing with the physical commodity. Forward contracting requires the actual delivery of the commodity. Futures markets buy and sell the contracts for the commodity not the actual commodity.

Only exchange members can buy and sell futures contracts. Nonmembers must hire a broker to deal in the futures market. The fees or commissions incurred for this service must also be taken into account when determining the minimum price a farmer is willing to accept.

A farmer may become a speculator by participating in commodities which he does not produce, consistent with his crop and livestock plan, or by reversing market positions that are not conducive to the farm business.

Most farmers want to protect their commodity prices by reducing risk positions in the market. A farmer will commonly deal with a commodity with which he has a good understanding of price movements. When a farmer deals in a commodity that he either produces or is consistent with the farm plan, it is called hedging of that commodity. When one is participating with the futures, you must deposit a margin of the total contract with the broker.

The example illustrates a perfect hedge. You may not be able to reduce the risk to zero and you may even make a higher profit on the transactions.

The key is that you have reduced the risk of lower prices substantially by hedging.

Options Contracting

A relatively new marketing tool is the agricultural options contract.

The first agricultural options contract was traded in the fall of 1984. The options contract provides an insurance policy for price protection. An option gives a farmer the right to buy or sell a commodity at a specified price.

The farmer is not obligated to exercise the option. The option contract is more appealing to farmers in that for a price a farmer can lock out unfavorable price changes and still take advantage of favorable price movement.

Another appeal to trading in options is there is no margin or delivery required for the buyer. As with any type of insurance, the option adds a cost to the commodity.

Careful planning and good record keeping will help the farmer know when to use the options contracts to his best advantage.

Summary

Some suggestions in dealing with risk management of price movement:

Never contract your entire crop before harvest. The risk is always present of not harvesting enough to complete the contract.

Use a combination of marketing tools to ensure the best possible profit. Monitor the market and your costs and be flexible in your strategy. The more successful farmers usually have very good records. They know their costs and plan ahead.

Using these tools can reduce the risks involved in marketing, especially in an environment of fluctuating prices. With the drought conditions appearing across the nation, now is a good time to plan your marketing strategy.

Hedging can be shown in the following examples.

Theoretical Example of an Insurance Hedge: Selling steers

	Cash Market (underline titles)	Futures Market (June Contract)
October	Desired selling value in June 1,000 lbs @ $65/cwt=$650	Sell in October 1,000 lbs @ $65/cwt=$650
May	Sell steers 1,000 lbs @ $68/cwt=$680 -$30	Buy in May 1,000 lbs @ $68/cwt=$680 +$30

ADC Meets Farmers' Needs

More Than $110 Million in Extra Payments

Robert B. McSparran
President

"At Atlantic Dairy Cooperative, our mission is to maximize returns to members. In the past four years, we returned more than $110 million to members in equity payments, over-order premiums and quality bonuses. That's an average of $31,500 per member. And these extra dollars are continuing at the rate of $1.5 million a month.

"When non-members ask me why they should belong to Atlantic Dairy Cooperative, I am happy to report that we are financially healthy, strong in membership and growing in sales. ADC is the region's largest and most fiscally-sound cooperative, with a guaranteed market and outstanding benefits.

"More dairy farmers joined us last year than at any time in the past decade. If you are not an ADC shipper and are worried about your own milk market, then you should talk to the cooperative that is facing the future with confidence."

Disaster Payment Program Opens

SCRANTON (Lackawanna Co.) — Farmers who suffered crop losses in 1990 or 1991 because of drought, excessive moisture and other natural disasters may apply for disaster payments beginning February 3 at the Lackawanna County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

"Before applying for the program, farmers should organize their production records to assure they have adequate documentation. This will expedite the application filing procedures," said county ASCS official G. Kent Swartz.

He said producers will select the year for filing and cash payments will be computed according to the 1990 Farm Bill.

To qualify for the program, producers with crop insurance must have had losses greater than 35 percent. Producers without crop insurance must have had losses greater than 40 percent.

ASCS mailed disaster program kits to farmers this month. Swartz said the producer is responsible for preparing the worksheet, gathering supporting documents on the amount of loss, and making an appointment to apply for program benefits.

Eligible farmers will receive payments for production losses on participating program crops of wheat, feed grains, upland cotton, extra long staple cotton, and rice; nonparticipating program crops; peanuts, soybeans, sunflowers, sugar beets, sugarcane and tobacco; and all commercial nonprogram crops.

ASCS Opens Tree Assistance Program

Small and medium-scale commercial tree producers who experienced seedling losses in 1990 and 1991 because of drought, freeze, and earthquake damage may be partially reimbursed for their losses under the Tree Assistance Program (TAP).

The TAP is administered by the local office of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service. Requests for cost-share assistance under the program will be accepted from February 3 to March 13, 1992, said Swartz.

Under the TAP, payments will be provided for orchard trees planted to produce annual crops that were lost as a result of a freeze, an earthquake, or related condition in 1990 and 1991. Payments will also be provided for seedlings grown to be harvested for timber, pulp, and Christmas trees that were lost because of a drought, an earthquake, or related condition.

"Payments for these forest trees are authorized only for seedlings planted in 1989 or 1990 that were lost in 1990, or planted in 1990 or 1991 that were lost in 1991," Swartz said.

To qualify for assistance under the TAP, owners must own at least one acre of orchard or forest trees, but not more than 500 acres of orchard trees (not more than 1,000 acres in the case of forest trees) and must have owned the trees at the time of the disaster.

"Tree growers requesting assistance under the program may obtain additional eligibility and cost-sharing details from our office," Swartz said.

Dairy Refund Payment Program Changed

Dairy producers do not need to comply with highly erodible land and wetland conservation provisions to receive refunds under the Dairy Refund Payment Program (DRPP), according to Swartz. Recent amendments to DRPP regulations changed this requirement.

"Refund payments under the program are not considered a price support payment for purposes of compliance with highly erodible land and wetland conservation provisions," Swartz said.

The Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1990 calls for reductions in the price received by producers for commercial milk marketings beginning January 1, 1991 and ending December 31, 1995. The Act also authorizes refunds of amounts deducted from the producer's milk proceeds each year, if refund payment provisions are met.

Swartz said refunds of amounts deducted from 1991 commercial milk marketings under the DRPP will begin this month. Producers will be eligible to receive a refund of the entire amount deducted from their milk proceeds if they provide evidence that they did not increase milk marketings over the immediately preceding year, (he/she) said.

DRPP procedures also clarified the policy on transferring milk marketing history between producers.

"Except for eligible transfers that can occur during either the base period or refund period, the eligibility requirements for transferring milk marketing history remain the same," ASCS official, Swartz said.

Water Quality Incentive Project

Lackawanna County has been selected to participate in a new water quality project, according to Swartz.

Funded under the Agricultural Conservation Program, the Water Quality Incentive Project sign-up period opens February 3.

"Instead of cost-sharing, this new, innovative project provides incentive payments to encourage producers to implement management changes that will protect or enhance water quality," Swartz said. A water quality resource management plan outlining management measures necessary to improve and protect water quality will be developed by the Soil Conservation Service or other designated agencies.

The practice available is called "source reduction of agricultural pollutants." Efforts to enhance water quality under this practice include components for integrated crop management, soil testing, scouting, crop rotations, reduced tillage, contour farming, deferred grazing, and irrigation water management. Approximately twenty additional measures are also available.

"Producers should contact our office as soon as possible to find out more about the new Water Quality Incentive Project," said Swartz.

Silage Spreader Withstands Blower Extremes

MOUNT JOY (Lancaster Co.) — The new, heavy duty BlueMax™ Multi-Flo™ silage spreader from Lancaster Level-Flo, Inc. is designed to withstand the extreme demands of high capacity blowers when pushed to their limits.

The non-scoring, 12-inch wide liner in the BlueMax™ is made of 12-gauge stainless steel, twice as thick as the liner in standard Multi-Flo™ silage spreaders. All other parts that are subject to wear are 25 percent heavier.

In addition, the increased durability and strength of BlueMax™ is a result of reinforcements at key points. It has twin locking hold-down mechanisms and its middle silage-deflecting fins are adjustable with a new locking device.

In addition, the manual shift lever, which moves the spreader head up and down, is strengthened and now attached at two points. Even the exclusive Multi-Flo™ non-binding hinges are reinforced.

The BlueMax™ is part of the Multi-Flo™ line of non-motorized silage spreaders from Lancaster Level-Flo. Like all other models in the line, the BlueMax™ uses simple mechanics and careful engineering to distribute silage uniformly throughout a silo. This uniform and tightly packed silage retains more nutrients and minimizes spoilage. Uniform packing also means better unloader performance and longer silo life.

For more information, contact Ken Musser, Lancaster Level-Flo, 25 Eby Chiques Rd., Mount Joy, PA 17552 (717) 653-2239.

AGCO Will Distribute Tractor Line

ATLANTA, Ga. — AGCO Corp. has signed a long-term agreement with S+L+H S.p.A. of Italy to become the exclusive distributor of SAME tractors in North America, Robert J. Ratliff, president and CEO of AGCO, has announced.

"The current SAME models consist of a full line of technologically advanced two-wheel and all-wheel drive tractors ranging from 40 to 120 PTO horsepower," Ratliff said. "In addition, SAME offers a specialty tractor line featuring crawlers, orchard, vineyard, and mudder tractor models. Existing SAME dealers in California already have established the specialty line as a major player in the lucrative California market."

In addition to exclusive distribution rights, AGCO also will acquire the SAME (pronounced SAW-me) dealer organization in North America. Ratliff said the company plans to expand the dealer network by signing up more dealers throughout 1992.

"Another aspect of this agreement is that AGCO now will provide a full range of parts for SAME tractors," Ratliff said.

The high-tech SAME tractors are built in S+L+H's modern facilities located in Treviglio, Italy. State-of-the-art electronics and the air-cooled diesel engine are standard on all SAME tractors. SAME has won the prestigious Gold Medal Award in Europe two years running for its outstanding engineering-design excellence.

Individuals interested in obtaining information on becoming a SAME dealer should contact Robert J. Ratliff (404) 246-6100 or Harold D. Dent, AGCO vice president, marketing (404) 246-6150.

FONTANA (Lebanon Co.) — Umbergers recently opened their new 18,000 square foot retail store during a celebration of 60 years in business. Automatic Farm Systems Receives Awards

ASSUMPTION, Ill. — Grain Systems Inc., (GSI) recently sponsored a sales meeting at St. Petersburg, Fla. Each year at the sales meeting, GSI presents awards to the largest dealer of each state.

Bronze awards were given to any dealer that purchased more than $50,000 of equipment and silver awards were presented to dealers that purchased more than $500,000. Automatic Farm Systems, the second largest dealer in United States, received one of the four silver plaques that were awarded.

Automatic Farm Systems began business in 1982 handling GSI grain bins, feed bins, wet tanks, grain dryers, flex augers, and accessories. In addition, they carry Sukup drying equipment, David Manufacturing grain cleaners and drying equipment, Westfield augers, Hutchinson augers, Honeyville bucket elevators and dust collection systems, Sweet bucket elevators and conveyors, and Mix Mill milling systems.

Automatic Farm Systems also has a manufacturing facility of their own from which they manufacture their own heavy duty augers, the Master Mill Milling System, and the Data weigh computer batch controller. This manufacturing ability has enabled them to custom manufacture items needed to adapt to existing systems in operation or design new equipment to the desires of the customer.

New powerful MF 1160 compact tractor with 37 PTO hp diesel engine and 16 speed synchro-shuttle transmission is designed for farmers and contractors who need a compact four-wheel-drive tractor for heavy-duty jobs.

Compact Tractor Handles Heavy Jobs

DES MOINES, Iowa — The new Massey Ferguson MF 1160 compact tractor is designed for farmers and contractors that need a compact four-wheel-drive tractor with the power to handle heavy-duty jobs.

The MF 1160 features a four-cylinder direct injection diesel engine that produces 37 PTO horsepower (41 engine horsepower) combined with a synchro shuttle 16 speed transmission, four-wheel-drive front axle, and independent PTO.

The Synchro Shuttle transmission allows for easy single lever shifting between forward and reverse. There are 16 forward and 16 reverse speeds, with the 3rd and 4th gears equipped with a synchromesh unit for smooth shiting. This allows for shifting from 2nd and 3rd to 4th in each of the four ranges while the tractor is moving.

A strong, bevel-gear-driven 4WD front axle moves through a 55 degree steering angle for excellent maneuverability and smooth, full power transfer to the wheels at all steering angles. Ag or turf tires are available to meet owners needs.

The electro-hydraulic actuated independent PTO is engaged by simply pushing the button on the steering column.

A spacious, full flat deck provides plenty of space for the operator, a three-position tilt steering column adjusts for optimum operator comfort, and the integral power steering responds quickly, positively, and securely.

The MF 232 Quick Attach Loader and the MF 1017 backhoe are available for the MF 1160 tractor. The backhoe utilizes the MF 232 loader mounts for maximum strength and quick attachment.

We make our mark on the agricultural industry.

More than seed...

"The W-L I planted two years ago is giving me better yields and higher protein than any previous crop. I had a public variety in this field last time and I had to take it out in the third year. This W-L alfalfa is sure to go a full four."

For more than 25 years, W-L alfalfas have been bred, tested and produced to give high yields, leafy, fine-stemmed forage with long stand persistence and multiple pest and disease resistance. For the best return on your investment, you can't afford less than W-L.

Mower/Conditioner Cuts Harvest Time

VERNON, N.Y. — A new mower conditioner that can cut crop drying time to just 1½ to two days and lays swaths requiring half as many passes to harvest is available from Kuhn Farm Machinery.

The Kuhn FC 301 G mower conditioner, featuring a free swinging finger rotor and adjustable/reversible comb, is specifically designed for conditioning grassy crops. Conventional methods for drying crops with a 20 percent or less moisture can take from 3 to 5 days. With the Kuhn FC 301 G, crops can be harvested in 1½ to two days. Wilted grass for silage, with an average moisture content of 60 percent, can be harvested in just four to five hours.

The FC 301 G mower conditioner also speeds up harvesting time. The unit's swath board is designed to merge two swaths, creating one swath 7' 6" inches in size. The swath can be collected by an 8' forage harvester pickup in half the passes required with conventionally sized swaths, saving both operating time and costs. And since crops are harvested so soon after cutting, they retain their maximum nutritive value. If required, the FC 301 G will also lay axial swaths.

Designed for easier, more efficient operation, the Kuhn FC 301 G mower conditioner incorporates six cutting discs with twin blades to mow 7½ acres in less than one hour. Additionally, a safety breakback mechanism protects against damage by stones or debris.

The FC 301 G is equipped with Kuhn's exclusive Gyrodine® swivel hitch. This device has been specially designed to maintain the distance between the tractor PTO and machine. The PTO shaft is always perfectly in line, even in the tightest corners. Maneuverability is also improved and drivetrain chatter and fatigue are reduced. Another major advantage of the Gyrodine® hitch is that the unit can be operated at either 540 or 1,000 rpm. By simply removing a pin, the FC 301 G can be adapted to the tractor's PTO speed.

The FC 301 G, a towed model, requires 100 HP for operation. When conventional mowing is desired, the FC 301 G's conditioning unit can be removed and a special guard fitted in its place. Simple to transport, the Kuhn FC 301 G folds to a 9'10" travel width.

For more information on Kuhn's FC 301 G mower conditioner, contact Kuhn Farm Machinery, Inc., P.O. Box 224, Vernon, N.Y. 13476, (315) 829-2620.

DEAD SOW REMOVAL BECOMES ONE MAN JOB

The Sow Hearse has an efficient, hand-operated winch connected to a steel cable and pulley that enables one person to pull a sow from the floor onto the cart to transport to a disposal.

Tri-County Confinement Systems of Lebanon has introduced the Sow Hearse to remove dead sows from confinement stalls in swine systems.

The death of a sow in a stall results in a very difficult and unpleasant job for at least two people. With a Sow Hearse, the task is much simpler and can be accomplished by one person.

The Sow Hearse, made of solid steel rod, is a rubber-wheeled cart designed to negotiate the narrow aisles of many confinement barns. On its top is an efficient, hand-operated winch connected to a steel cable that rides on a nylon pulley. When the cable is looped around the sow and secured, she can be pulled easily from the floor of her stall onto the sloped bed of the Sow Hearse. The machine then functions as a cart to transport the dead animal to a disposal location.

Dimensions of the Sow Hearse are 22" wide x 24" long x 4'4" high.

TRI-COUNTY Sow Hearse Makes The Removal Of A Dead Sow From A Confinement Stall An Easy Job For One Person. Made Of Solid Steel, It Is A Durable Easy-To-Operate Machine... A Must For Today's Confinement System Operator!

Farmers To Convene At National Convention

DENVER, Colo. — Hundreds of family farmers and rural citizens will gather at the Marriott Hotel in Des Moines the first four days in March for the National Farmers Union's 90th Anniversary Convention.

Attendees will participate in policy discussions and hear from numerous political officials and agricultural leaders.

Among the presenters at the convention will be R. W. Apple Jr., the internationally recognized correspondent for the "New York Times." He will direct a lively open discussion among the presidents of commodity organizations representing wheat, cattle, corn, dairy, tobacco, and fruits and vegetables.

Political leaders will also be on hand at this convention to listen to concerns voiced by members and delegates of the National Farmers Union. Governors Terry Branstad of Iowa and Joan Finney of Kansas will be speaking, as will U.S. Congressman Richard Stallings of Idaho and David Nagle of Iowa.

International agricultural issues and their impacts on America's farmers will be explored by several guests, including Gerard Doornbos of the Netherlands Christian Farmers and Growers Union.

Convention participants will also have the opportunity to be involved in informal discussions surrounding concerns with rural education and farming with two generations.

Plenty of time has been reserved so that guests can enjoy the numerous sites and attractions of this modern midwestern city.

Dan Hunter, a local singer and humorist with national recognition, will entertain the group the first evening. Roger Stauter, a humorist and inspirational speaker, will perform Wednesday night.

ADC Members Get Return

SOUTHAMPTON (Bucks Co.) — Atlantic Dairy Cooperative distributed $3.29 million in equity payments to members on Feb. 1, according to Evan L. Fineman, treasurer.

The payout included $2.14 million in patronage refunds and $1.15 million from the cooperative's former capital retain program, in which members contributed 10 cents per hundredweight.

Atlantic ended its capital retain program in May 1987. Funds generated from the program were to be returned in five years, with final payment in 1992.

"Our five-year revolving program is one of the most aggressive among dairy cooperatives," Fineman said. "We are pleased to return the remaining capital retain payments on schedule."

The patronage refunds portion of the disbursement was based on the amount of milk each member sold during the 1985-1986 fiscal year. The payment represents net income earned in proportion to an individual member's volume of business with the cooperative, in this case milk marketed.

Atlantic Dairy Cooperative, which represents nearly 3,500 dairy farm families in Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia, celebrates its 75th anniversary this year. The cooperative was formed in 1917 to help dairy farmers market their milk more efficiently and profitably.

Mattocks Receives Performance Award

LEWISBURG (Union Co.) — Duane Mattocks, financial management services specialist for Northeastern Farm Credit, ACA has received the Farm Credit Bank of Baltimore's District Exceptional Performance Award for his ongoing outstanding service to his farm records and tax customers.

Included with this recognition was an all-expenses-paid trip — four days and nights — at the Grand Floridian in Walt Disney World, Florida.

Mattocks is recognized throughout Pennsylvania, both in and out of Farm Credit, as an authority on farm tax and accounting issues. He is regularly sought out by tax preparers and others for his knowledge and expertise in the specialty field of farm tax preparation. Specializing in the more complex areas of estate transfer and tax planning, Duane has built a reputation for excellence.

Mattocks is currently serving 210 customers who mostly reside in Bradford, Sullivan, Wyoming, Susquehanna, Lackawanna and Wayne Counties.

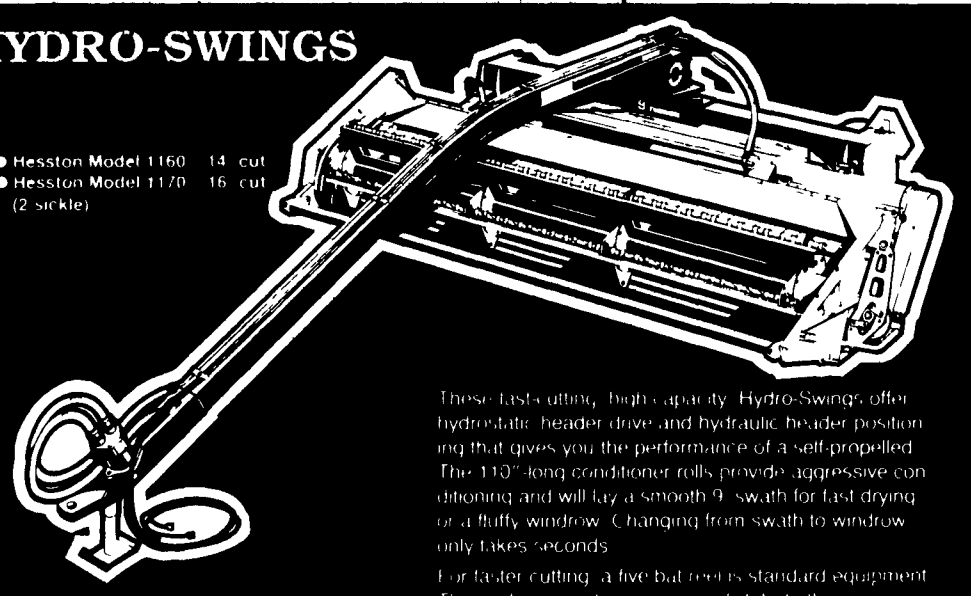
HYDRO-SWINGS



- Hesston Model 1160 14' cut
- Hesston Model 1170 16' cut (2 sickle)

These fast-cutting, high-capacity Hydro-Swings offer hydrostatic header drive and hydraulic header positioning that gives you the performance of a self-propelled. The 110"-long conditioner rolls provide aggressive conditioning and will lay a smooth 9' swath for fast drying or a fluffy windrow. Changing from swath to windrow only takes seconds.

For faster cutting, a five bat reel is standard equipment. The exclusive metering auger distributes the crop uniformly along conditioner rolls for smooth crop flow and improved hay quality.

A Satisfied Customer...
JOHN R. RODGERS, of Belleville had three styles of fencing installed totaling a mile on his farm. John offers these comments. "I looked at others fencers and determined that Beaver Fence Systems had the people that could do a quality job and a quality fence to keep the cattle where I want them. The flexibility of the fence gives me full utilization of the land with maximum efficiency. The job was completed in two days including a barnyard fence, plus 6 and 4 wire pasture fencing."

NEW From Zook
BREWEX - For Use In Dairy Feeds
BREWEX is used extensively in complete dairy formulations to contribute utilizable energy. It is a price/performance value when used in dry feeds, liquid feeds and on-farm mixes.
MIX WITH DRY FEEDS: BREWEX is found in commercial pelleted rations for dairy, hogs and poultry as an energy source to replace corn. BREWEX replaces corn on a pound for pound dry basis and provides for improved pellet durability, reduced mineral segregation, dust control and improved palatability in dairy rations.
ON-FARM MIXING
A commercial Jersey dairy farm, having over ten years of experience in feeding BREWEX to partially replace corn finds that
- BREWEX replaced 5% to 10% corn/day
- BREWEX improves butterfat about 0.1%
- BREWEX mixed with forage reduces mortality due to displaced abomasum
- BREWEX helps cattle to stay on feeds

The Eby Wrangler...
★ Better Looking ★ Better Built
★ Better Value

The Wrangler Model 2000-OH represents a new level of value in livestock trailers.

Its standard specifications, top-quality components and proven engineering are found in other Wrangler models. But the new 2000-OH is less expensive. By standardizing height and width and by limiting the number of optional accessories, Eby lowers the production costs for this model. Now you can get all our traditional craftsmanship in a top-value gooseneck.

Unlike other "budget" trailers on the market, the Wrangler 2000-OH achieves a price breakthrough without compromising quality. Consider these features, standard on the new Wranger 2000-OH:

- 7,000# Dexter Torque-Flex axles
- Steel-belted radial tires, 10-ply rating
- Aerodynamic, attractive design
- Sealed beam lights with enclosed, externally accessible wiring
- 2-year warranty

Specifications

- Available in 14', 16', 18', 20' lengths
- 7' Width
- 6'6" Inside height

FOCUS ON SHEEP

Increasing Lamb Consumption

Consumers today are telling us they want smaller, leaner cuts of lamb, but producers may not be listening.

Consumption seems to be affected primarily by trends, and today's emphasis is on "light and healthy foods" which people mistakenly approach with a diet containing little or no red meat.

The key to a better lamb market is getting more people to eat lamb and getting the people who already eat lamb to purchase more. Growers need to participate in yield grading programs and packers must compensate them for producing lean lambs.

The food service industry needs to offer a wider variety of cuts at lower prices with lamb prepared to appeal to all age groups, but especially the younger crowd. Consumers need to be educated as to selection and preparation, as well as nutritive value of tender, lean, delicious lamb. There is little wrong with the lamb industry that cannot be resolved by increasing consumption.

Direct Marketing

The age-old problems in the lamb business are still with us. Seasonal supply, excessive fatness, product variability, low consumer demand, and a high slaughter cost per unit of edible meat are problems the industry has been unable to solve.

Dr. Harold Harpster, Penn State University animal scientist, offers direct marketing as a solution to minimize economic losses experienced by those selling on traditional markets. Three options to consider are:

- Sell the live animal directly to consumers who make their own processing arrangements.
- Establish a cooperative of producers to slaughter and retail lamb products.
- Merchandize "freezer lambs" by working directly with a local butcher and customers who prefer your product.

Direct marketing takes time. You must provide a consistent, high-quality product at a reasonable price. You must educate your customers and be willing to address their complaints. However when conventional markets are depressed, direct marketing may be your best altemative to pinching out a profit.

Grazing and Fencing

Grazing and fencing go together. Any kind of pasture management will improve your production, but perhaps a controlled system utilizing innovative fencing and systematic foraging will produce maximum production.

Knowing the relationship of plants and animals is a key to controlling the grazer so that the pasture is considered an important crop. No acreage is too expensive to allow a ruminant to graze it if you're going to feed it from that acreage.

However, management becomes very important and intensive grazing becomes a viable option. By dividing your pasture into grazing cells, you can maximize forage production and concentrate intake by animals to maintain an economic level of production.

The more paddocks or cells you have, the easier it is to manage. The grass must be the right height and have the right fertility and the correct number of animals grazing within a well-designed fencing system to optimize the benefits of controlled grazing.

Watch for Coccidia Infections

If your sheep have been confined during the winter months, coccidiosis can be a potential problem.

Coccidiosis is caused by tiny parasitic protozoa entering the walls of the intestinal tract. The protozoa multiply, swelling and rupturing the cells of the intestinal wall. These ruptures cause hemorrhaging, resulting in bloody diarrhea and dark, tarry feces. If feces containing these parasites are permitted to contaminate feed and water, or if sheep pick them up from grazing or licking contaminated areas, they become infected.

Coccidia are opportunistic parasites. This means they do most damage during stressful periods, such as lambing, weaning, moving, unfavorable weather, and outbreaks of other infectious diseases. The best prevention for this parasite infection is a program that combines a watchful eye for symptoms, good sanitation practices, and a feed-grade coccidiostat.

LCSWGA — Membership, Programs, Shearing School

The Lancaster County Sheep and Wool Grower's Association (LCSWGA) is conducting their annual membership drive for folks interested in all aspects of sheep raising.

The association conducts educational meetings throughout the year, including a sheep shearing school that has graduated more than 100 students.

This year's school is set for April 3 and 4, 1992, at the Bill Longenecker Farm in Mount Joy.

LCSWGA is planning meetings this year regarding the topics of ram breeding soundness, controlled grazing, alternative forages, and husbandry skills for sheep producers. Information about obtaining a producer directory, membership form, or shearing school sign-up should be directed to Chester D. Hughes, Penn State Cooperative Extension, 1383 Arcadia Road, Room 1, Lancaster, PA 17601, (717) 394-6851.

Awards Given To Volunteers

WARREN (Warren Co.) — William "Buzz" Paris, Sr. of Sheffield, David F. Miller of Warren, and Dean and Melinda Johnson of Scandia all have something in common.

They were each recently awarded Volunteer Of Distinction awards for their outstanding contributions of time and energy to the educational mission of Warren County Cooperative Extension. The award recipients were chosen by the executive board of the extension.

Ray Shields, right, of the Warren County Cooperative Extension Board congratulates David Miller, center, and William Paris, Sr., left, after being presented Volunteer of Distinction awards for their contributions of time and energy to the educational mission of Warren County Cooperative Extension. Dean and Melinda Johnson, not available for the photo, also received the award.

According to Sanford Smith, extension agent, "This year's recipients exemplify the type of volunteerism that has made a difference in the lives of many people throughout the county and across the state. These individuals have consistently gone the extra mile, and are deserving of the highest recognition."

Paris was recognized for his volunteer work in chain saw safety public education. He has served as a safety instructor at 11 extension-organized programs in the past three years, and he has been instrumental in advising the extension office on educational materials to be used for other chain saw safety programs.

Paris is committed to the education of the "occasional" chain saw user, while his profession is that of a safety inspector and consultant to a logging insurance underwriter. Paris has served on the Forestry Day Committee at the Warren County Fair for the past four years, and he has been a class chairman in the Loggers and Sawmillers safety competitions during this time as well.

Miller also been a presenter at many extension educational programs. In the past year he has given presentations on timber theft, woodlot management, and deer damage to forest regeneration. He currently serves on the program advisory committee for the Forest Stewardship VIP program, and he serves as an assistant director for the Warren County Conservation District.

Dean and Melinda Johnson have also been actively involved in a variety of extension and youth programs, and their award was presented to them as a husband and wife team. They are best known as the dairy judging coaches for the 4-H'ers of Warren County. In 1991, a team they coached competed in the North American Invitational Judging at Louisville, Ky.

According to Smith, "Dean has served as an executive director for the Pennsylvania Holstein Association and as president for the county club. He has actively promoted the improvement of the dairy industry as well as the Holstein breed. He also serves on the conservation district board of directors."

Melinda has utilized her expertise in fashion design and color analysis to work with the county dairy princesses, the 4-H fashion review, and county fair queen activities. She works with youth at the county fair to help them groom and show their dairy cattle, and she is also a past member of the Warren County 4-H Development Council.

Salmonella Meeting Set

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — A special Salmonella enteritidis (SE) meeting for producers is scheduled for March 10 in the Farm and Home Center.

After a complimentary buffet lunch at noon, the program, which begins at 1 p.m., will feature Dr. John Mason, director of the USDA SE Task Force. Mason will speak about the national and Pennsylvania perspectives on SE control and offer steps for voluntary solutions to the problem. Dr. Sherrill Davison, University of Pennsylvania, will speak about cleaning and disinfecting poultry houses.

Dr. Maxcy Nolan, University of George, will speak about effective rodent control and Dr. Irvin Peterson, USDA/APHIS, will speak about the role of vaccination in controlling SE.

The meeting, which features a complimentary lunch for poultry producers, is sponsored by the Pennsylvania Poultry Federation.

NCGA Applauds Decision On Imports

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — The National Corn Growers Association (NCGA) is applauding a recent decision by Canada to lift its countervailing duty on U.S. corn imports. The duty will be removed on March 6, when a 1987 Canadian finding of injury to Canadian corn producers expires.

"Corn growers can certainly view this action as a positive step forward for future corn trade with Canada," said NCGA International Trade Policy Committee Chairman Jack Kintzle, a corn grower from Coggon, Iowa. "It is especially positive for the U.S. that they are dropping the duty voluntarily."

NCGA had fought in Canadian courts during the 1980s to have the duty removed, but ultimately lost the case.

Canada had originally placed a $1.10 per bushel (in Canadian dollars) duty on U.S. corn imports in 1987 to keep subsidized U.S. corn from cutting into Canadian corn prices and farmer incomes. U.S. corn imports were thought to have a price advantage over Canadian corn because of the effects of various U.S. farm programs. The duty was reduced in 1988 to 46 Canadian cents per bushel following a review by the Canadian International Trade Tribunal.

U.S. corn exports to Canada have fallen overall since 1987, while Canadian corn production has risen. However, NCGA notes the U.S. has been able to capture another market at the same time. U.S. value-added corn product exports to Canada have increased, which has discouraged Canadian production of value-added products.

"U.S. corn farmers have sent a limited amount of corn to Canada in the past," said Kintzle, "but this certainly opens a market opportunity for us. It could even potentially pave the way for an increase in U.S. corn exports in the future."

Canada has collected roughly $34 million in duties since the order was put in place in 1987. During the same time, U.S. corn exports fell from 26.63 million bushels in 1986 to a low of 11.49 million bushels in 1987. U.S. corn exports in 1990 were reported at 25.73 million bushels, according to most recent data.

Pest Survey Yields Results

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — A survey of pest management practices among 840 Pennsylvania farmers points out the need for more education, research, and community involvement in dealing with integrated pest management (IPM) principles, according to Boyd E. Wolff, state agriculture secretary.

Wolff made the announcement after reviewing the results of the survey, which was commissioned by the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture using Ag Research Funds and undertaken by researchers at Pennsylvania State University.

"This is one part of our ongoing effort to bring quality products to the consumer's table," Secretary Wolff said. "IPM techniques are cost effective and result in a win-win situation for both the farmer and consumer. I encourage both groups to find out more about IPM."

Integrated pest management (IPM) involves the substitution of beneficial insects or mechanical controls in place of pesticides to attack garden pests and reduce crop losses. The IPM method, which requires careful attention to crops and the cycles of pest development, results in reduced chemical treatments to fruits and vegetables.

About 640 field crop farmers and 200 apple growers from all parts of the state were included in the survey. The results of the survey revealed several aspects of the farmers' involvement with IPM.

The survey found that apple farmers and large farm operations tended to use IPM principles more than field crop farmers or small farm operations. Insects were cited as the most damaging pests to apple growers, while field crop farmers placed insects behind weeds as the most detrimental farm pests.

The survey also noted that IPM is widely used in Pennsylvania, but there is a need for further education and research. Key areas for further research included biotechnology, resistance management, and non-chemical methods of pest control.

In education, survey respondants expressed the need to get farmers' nonfarm neighbors to appreciate their efforts to reduce pesticide use. Also, the survey indicated a need to educate banking and lending officials about IPM as an alternative to pesticides in reducing the risk of crop losses.

The Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture is working with Penn State University to encourage the use of IPM principles among Pennsylvania fruit and field crop farmers. To find out more about IPM, contact Lee Bentz in the Department's Bureau of Plant Industry at (717) 772-5204.

Farm Credit Sponsors Dairy Herd Seminar

YORK (York Co.) — The Pennsylvania Farm Credit, ACAs are sponsoring a large dairy herd management seminar on April 8 and 9 at the Embers Inn and Convention Center in Carlisle.

This seminar is directed toward dairy farms presently milking more than 125 cows or those who plan to expand beyond that size.

Don R. Rogers, vice president, farm management services for the Farm Credit Bank of Springfield will be the keynote speaker. Don has consulted with more than 1,000 farm families on a variety of financial and management areas throughout the Northeast. He works with many dairy farms on planning and analysis, and has been the key presenter at several large dairy farm seminars across the country.

This workshop will help:

- Develop a strategy to improve your bottom line.
- Learn how other large dairy farms operate.
- Design a more efficient system.
- Assess where you are and what you need to change.
- Understand the risks associated with expanding.
- Provide capital investment planning and analysis.

DEADLINE for registration is March 20. For more information and registration material, contact Annette Hillegass, PennWest Farm Credit, ACA, Somerset, (814) 445-7530 or your local Farm Credit office.

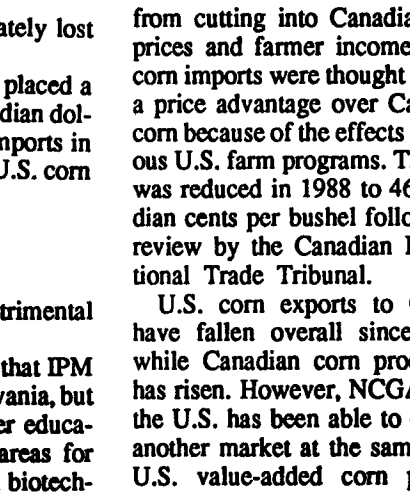
"I saw the difference right away!"



Max Reapsome, Loysville, PA

That's how Max Reapsome recalls his beginnings with Fertrell fertilizer - over 12 years ago! Starting with top dressing alfalfa, Max soon began using Fertrell fertilizers more widely. Here's why: "With Fertrell the quality of my feed is better. It allows my cows to get more nutrition out of the same amount of feed or less. Plus, my herbicide use has been reduced 30 to 40 percent and I haven't needed pesticides for over 8 years! And that saves me money."

Just ask a Fertrell representative to develop a personalized fertilizer plan for you. He'll analyze you soil's elements, your crops and growing conditions, and show you how to balance all three so you can "see the difference right away!"

Fertrell.

Updated N.Y. Bull Test Report In

CORNELL, N.Y. — With midwest feeder prices on 550-pound steer calves selling in volume about $1 and non-papered, long-bred heifers selling all winter in big numbers in the $9-$13 range, it appears that we should be taking the cow-calf business seriously.

A good crop of beef bulls are on test at the Cornell T&R Center for two more weigh periods. At the end of weigh period 2, the order of ranking of weight per day of age by breed average, which may be the best single performance category to consider, was Gelbvieh, Red Angus, Simmental, Angus, Charolais, Polled Hereford, Shorthorn, Salers, Hereford and Limousin.

Also of heavy interest are the top period performers within each breed.

FREE YOURSELF FROM SPREADER CHAINS AND SAVE MONEY

The proven Hydra-Spread design can free you from the grief and maintenance of spreader apron chains for good!

This low maintenance spreader features solid poly boards both on the sides and the floor for slippery, no-stick performance. Hydraulic push power replaces the extensive mechanism needed in ordinary spreaders.'

Why pay more for yesterday's ideas and designs? The design of tomorrow is PRICED RIGHT and will be on the job for years. We deliver to your farm.

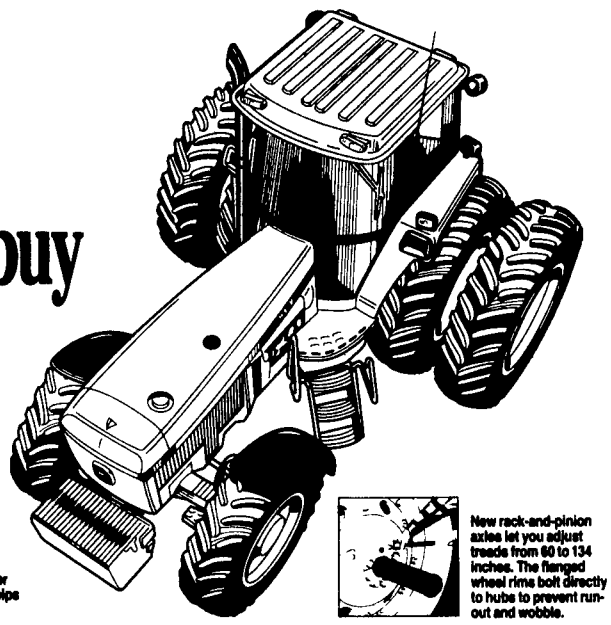
NEW 155- TO 200-HP JOHN DEERE 60 SERIES TRACTORS

They're the best you can buy



The air filter is easier than ever to service. You can do it quickly without tools or lifting the hood.

New vertical oil filter on 7.6 L engines helps prevent spills for cleaner changes.

New rack-and-pinion axles let you adjust treads from 60 to 134 inches. The flanged wheel rims bolt directly to hubs to prevent run-out and wobble.

And we'll back those words with a free demonstration!

Sign up now for our free John Deere 60 Series Tractor demonstration and see for yourself why these tractors are better than ever. New rack-and-pinion axles. New non-glare lights. New easier oil and air filter servicing. Improved sound quality. New wider steps and spacious platform. Improved visibility. Plus a NEW 5-YEAR/5000-HOUR WARRANTY... on top of all the other qualities that make John Deere the leading tractors in the field today. Stop in and sign up today.

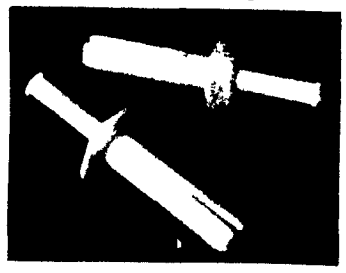
NYLON DRIVE RIVETS

Easy, Fast, Permanent Drill A ¼ In. Hole Put The Rivet Into Hole, Hit The Pin With A Hammer, You're Done Corrosion and Vibration Resistant, Not Effected By Urine, Versatile, Inexpensive



Rivets can be used to hold metal, plastic, tile-board or fiberglass sheets to any present wall surface, you will never have to paint again. Now you can wash down the walls of your milk parlor, dog or puppy kennels or any other place where sanitation is necessary. Nylon rivets will not rust or fall apart like rusty metal screws or nails. These rivets are sold by 100 or more per order.

WINCO PTO GENERATORS

Power fails at the worst possible time—restart your whole farm with the number one PTO generator the world over!

ENERGX Corporation, the world's largest PTO generator manufacturer, designs Winco PTO units from the ground up for farm standby power. Built to handle motor loads for the duration of the power outage, and rated for continuous duty operation.

Big motors in your feed room groan to a halt. Vent fans, milk coolers stop. There are no lights, no heating, and no power in the house. For how long? Nobody knows! But with a Winco PTO generator, your farm will be back in business in minutes.

Winco PTO generators are available in sizes from 8KW to 75KW continuous duty. The Maxi-Watt® field coil windings provide extra capacity to restart a big farm at the busiest time of the day.

Winco PTO units will run a combination motor load of up to 1 HP per KW.

3 SILOS AND UNLOADERS

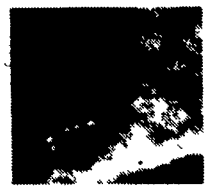
WARNING! DETERIORATING CONCRETE FROM CORN JUICE!

WARNING, ALL SILO OWNERS

Check your silo now for rotten staves. If you have been using your silo for 10 to 15 years for either corn silage or haylabe, it is time to SHOTCRETE.

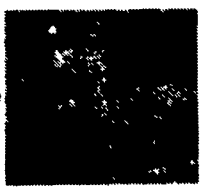
RESURFACES INTERIORS:
- Coats the silo's interior
- Protects feed in storage
- Durable, tough, acid-resistant
- Increases useful life
- Economical

Before The silo's interior with plaster damaged and stave exposed

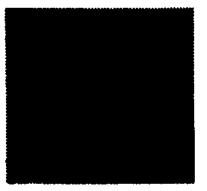


After The surface is reconditioned, and a new, thick, tough surface will protect stored feed

REPAIRS HOLES:
- Repairs even large holes
- Up to twice the strength of the original stave
- Rapid application
- Durable surface



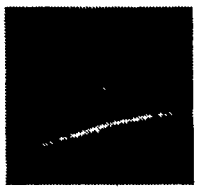
Before A hole is worn completely through the silo wall



After With the hole repaired by ShotCrete and a new surface applied, the silo is ready for years of use

EXTENDS USEFUL LIFE:
- Support for old foundations
- Special repairs can be made... quickly and economically
- Little or no forming needed
- Stronger than the original

Before The bottom part of the staves are completely worn away



After The ShotCrete System repairs and replaces the missing structure

Shotcrete is also good for repairing stone walls

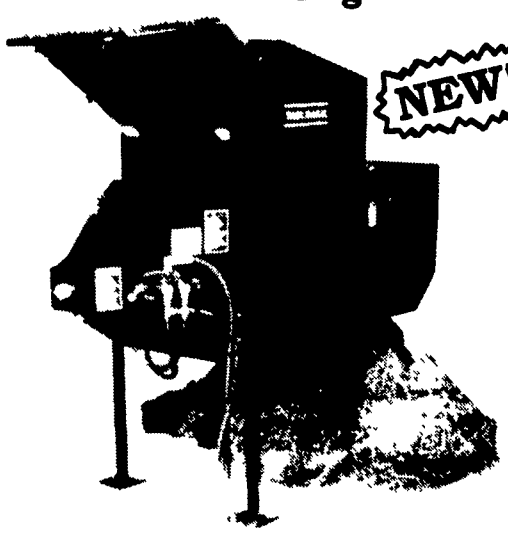
VAN DALE®

Dependability through Quality

S600 BALE PROCESSOR

Engineered & Designed By Van Dale...



NEW!

ONLY ONE OF ITS KIND ON THE MARKET TODAY!

BALED HAY CAN NOW BE MIXED
Baled hay can now be processed into a condition suitable for mixing with other TMR materials in all types of mixers: auger, tumble or reel type. With the Van Dale Bale Processor, you can incorporate baled hay into your ration with less stress on your mixer and be assured of getting the maximum benefit from both your hay and your mixer.

ELIMINATES THE DUST AND MESS
The Van Dale Bale Processor uses a hydraulic ram to push the hay bale through a set of hardened steel knives slicing it into a more mixable 4" to 6" average length material without pulverizing the fragile materials in the bale.

FEED THE LEAVES-NOT JUST STEMS
Don't let your valuable feed nutrients disappear in a cloud of dust. Unlike a conventional bale chopper or tub grinder with high speed cutting knives which turn leaves into powder, the Van Dale Bale Processor retains up to 97% of the valuable leaf portion of your hay to be incorporated into the TMR ration.

★ ALL NEW... Process Hay For Use In T.M.R.
★ No Dust ★ Only One Moving Part
★ Use With All Mixers Including Tumblers & Web Chain Units
★ Quiet ★ No Loss Of Hay Leaves

Milk Up 5975#/Cow In 18 Months

Deitch Farms located in Cumberland Co., Pa., farm 550 acres and produce the following crops which are fed on the bunk to 120 Holstein cows. The mix includes corn silage, sorghum silage, alfalfa haylage, high moisture corn, and protein concentrate balanced for 55# of milk. In August of 1990 the Deitch's rented a computer feeder to feed fresh cows according to production over 60# of milk per day. They chose to feed Purina's Highest Energy Complete Chow "Maxi Tech 20% through the computer feeder.
